BRITISH COLUMBIA

Early History of British Columbia

Named by Her Majesty Queen Victoria in 1858. In the "Letters of Queen Victoria," which were published in 1907, appears one having an historical interest for this province. It is dated Osborne, 24th July, 1858, and was addressed by the Queen to Sir E. Bulwer-Lytton. At that time objections were being made in France to the name of New Caledonia being given to the proposed colony between the Pacific and the Rocky Mountains. The Queen wrote:

"The Queen has received Sir E. Bulwer-Lytton's letter. If the name of New Caledonia is objected to as being already borne by another colony or island claimed by the French, it may be better to give the new colony west of the Rocky Mountains another name. New Hanover, New Cornwall and New Georgia appear from the maps to be names of sub-divisions of that country, but do not appear on all maps. The only name which is given to the whole territory in every map the Queen has consulted is 'Columbia,' but as there exists also a Columbia in South America, and the citizens of the United States call their country also Columbia, at least in poetry, 'British Columbia' might be, in the Queen's opinion, the best name."

And in this way and for the reasons stated the province was named British Columbia by Queen Victoria.

As every important event, however remote, which has transpired on this coast since the discovery of the Pacific Ocean by Balboa has had an influence directly or indirectly on the country as it is to-day, the reader is referred back to Balboa himself, and with his discovery as a starting point, is carried onto the present time through a long list of voyages, discoveries, conquests, explorations, overland journeys, and the other more important events of a national or political character, including also a number of matters of individual and general interest as well.

In 1592 the Strait of Juan de Fuca, at the entrance to the Strait of Georgia, between Vancouver Island and the British Columbia mainland, was said to have been discovered by a navigator whose name it bears, but no authentic records are extant of visits to the coast of British Columbia prior to those of Bodega and Heceta in 1775 and of Captain Cook's third voyage in 1778.

The third voyage of Captain James Cook, undertaken in 1776, extended to the northwest coast in 1778. The well-known circumnavigator was commissioned by the British Government to examine the coast line from about 45 degrees north to the Arctic Ocean for alleged inland openings to the eastward. Through prevailing bad weather in March, 1778, he passed, unnoticed, the Strait of Juan de Fuca, and proceeding northward, discovered and named Nootka Sound, Prince William's Sound and Cook's Inlet.

One of the events determining the political fate of the northwest coast arose out of the traffic in furs, following the voyage of Captain Cook.

To the North West Company and its successor, the Hudson's Bay Company, belongs the credit for the final establishment of British supremacy throughout the northern Pacific Coasts.

Sir Alexander Mackenzie, after whom the Mackenzie River was named, was the first white man or citizen of any country to traverse the northern continent from ocean to ocean, which he did almost wholly on foot. He reached the Pacific in the vicinity of Bella Coola on July 20, 1793. He was followed, south of the line, by Lewis and Clark, who, in 1805, keeping to the Missouri River, and after crossing the Rocky Mountains to the Cumbia River, reached the mouth of the latter. The ill-fated Astor expedition came on the heels of Lewis and Clark, in 1811.

Several fearful tragedies in which the Indians were concerned are recorded to have taken place on this coast when the fur trade was at the height of prosperity. One was the destruction in 1803 of the American ship Boston by the natives of Nootka Sound, all the crew being murdered with the exception of the armourer, Jewitt, and the sail-maker, Thompson, who were kept in slavery four years by the Chief Maquinna of Vancouver and Quadra's day. In 1805 the American ship Atahualpa, of Rhode Island, was attacked by the savages of Millbank Sound, and her captain, mate and six seamen were killed, after which the other seamen succeeded in repelling the assailants and saving the vessel. In the same manner the Tonquin, of Boston, was, in June, 1811, attacked by the natives whilst at anchor in Clayoquot Sound, and with one exception the whole of the crew murdered.

The period between 1795, after the abandonment of Nootka, and 1818, is marked only by the arrival of numerous trading vessels, principally British and American, but including those of other nations as well. Subsequent to 1818, the history of the coast to 1846 is practically the history of the North West and Hudson's Bay Companies, and so far as the territory on the coast of what is British Columbia is concerned, that period may be extended to 1858. During the long interval of fifty years the principal voyages were in ships trading on behalf of the latter corporation.

The long-drawn-out period of diplomacy respecting the territorial limits of Great Britain, Russia and the United States, included the limits of Russian America (now known as Alaska), settled by the Anglo-Russian convention of 1825, with its further developments of the Behring Sea and Alaska boundary disputes, eventually settled by arbitration; and the Oregon boundary question, out of which the San Juan difficulty grew—the first of which was settled by treaty in 1846, and the second by the arbitration of the Emperor of Germany in 1872.

In the early history of the northwest coast the three important factors were: First, the search for the northwest passage, the practical solution of which was finally evolved by the building of the Canadian Pacific; second, the fur-trading period, from the date of the royal charter to the Hudson's Bay Company, in 1670, to that of the abrogation of the same in British Columbia in 1859, and the purchase of Rupert's Land by the Imperial Government in 1869; third, the claims to territory advanced by the three great powers mentioned and the diplomatic negotiations arising therefrom.

There is, in addition, the story of the founding of the colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia, after the gold-seekers had intruded upon the ancient preserves of the fur-hunters and had almost in a day swept away the sovereignty of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Under new organization, in 1821, and for purposes of trade and control, the Hudson's Bay Company divided the fur-bearing country into three great departments presided over by chief factors, namely: The Northern, Southern, and Western, and the Minor Department of Montreal, which included trading-posts in Canada on the borders of the settlements and down the coast of Labrador. The depot for the Western Department, which included all the territory between the watershed of the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Ocean and the Russian territory on the north and Mexico on the south, was established in the first place at Vancouver, on the Columbia River, and afterwards removed to Victoria. The trading-posts on the coast of British Columbia were strongly fortified and large farms, gristmills, sawmills, tanneries, fisheries, etc., were established for cattle-raising and business in several parts of the country. In 1863 the sale of the Hudson's Bay Company's stock and assets to the International Financial Society brought the days of their power practically to a close. History will accord to the Hudson's Bay Company its due meed of approbation for its wise and beneficent dealings with the Indians, thereby preparing them for the peaceful advent of white settlers; and equally so for its methods of training to labor and utility which now constitutes the means of livelihood in the settled sections of British Columbia.

It was during this period of Hudson's Bay Company rule that two important events in the commercial and industrial development of the Pacific Coast are to be noted. One was the arrival of the Beaver, the first steamship to enter the western ocean, in 1835. The other was the discovery of coal in the vicinity of Fort Rupert, where it was first prospected for by the Hudson's Bay Company. Boyd Gilmour and his nephew, Robert Dunsmuir, later Hon. Robert Dunsmuir and the founder of the Dunsmuir millions, came there from Scotland under contract as coal-mining experts for the purpose, in 1851. The coal seams in that locality not being found to be sufficiently thick to warrant exploitation, the plant and scene of operations were shifted to Nanaimo, which became the nucleus of an industry on Vancouver Island since developed to very important proportions, for the first few years under the aegis of the Hudson's Bay Company, and, after 1862, under the control of the Vancouver Coal Company and its successors, and Robert Dunsmuir and his sons and their successors.

Prior to the conclusion of the Oregon treaty on June 15, 1846, which fixed the boundary line between the United States and Great Britain at the 49th parallel, the Hudson's Bay Company, anticipating the result under which Fort Vancouver, their chief Pacific depot and distributing centre, established since 1824, became American territory, decided to remove their headquarters to within British limits. Victoria, at the southernmost end of Vancouver Island, was selected at the instance of Senior Chief Factor James Douglas.

The site of the present city of Victoria was known as Camosun, being the Indian name of the locality, the significance of which, however, is not known. It was chosen originally not with the view of becoming a city, but as a spot favorable for the erection of a fort, which was built in 1843. It was at first known as Fort Camosun, but was shortly changed to Fort Victoria in honor of the Queen.

On January 13, 1849, a charter was granted to the Hudson's Bay Company.

In 1849 Vancouver Island was proclaimed a British colony, ostensible inducements to settlement being extended to emigrants from Europe and elsewhere. In the same year Mr. Richard Blanshard was appointed and proclaimed the first Governor of the new colony, but his term of office was short and unsatisfactory, and in November, 1851, he returned to England, leaving the authority in the hands of a Provisional Council.

Before the close of the year, Mr. James Douglas, chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company, was appointed Governor, and, at the instance of the home government, called together in 1856 a representative assembly by whom the affairs of the colony were successfully administered.

During the early days of colonial government on Vancouver Island, the mainland, known in a vague way as New Caledonia, still remained Indian territory under the control of the Hudson's Bay Company. On August 20, 1858, by Imperial edict, it was named British Columbia, with boundaries as at present established. By order of the Queen-in-Council, dated September 2, 1858, Mr. James Douglas was made Governor and empowered to make provision for its due administration. On November 3, 1858, proclamation was made revoking the Crown grant of May 3, 1838, to the Hudson's Bay Company for exclusive trading with the Indians in New Caledonia. On November 19, 1858, the legislative birthday of British Columbia was enacted with the swearing in of officials under the auspices of Governor Douglas and Chief Justice Matthew Baillie Begbie, the scene of the ceremony being Fort Langley, the presumptive capital of the new colony.

Until 1864, Governor Douglas, assisted by certain officials sent from Great Britain, including Lieutenant-Colonel Moody, commander of the forces, and chief commissioner of lands and works—with latent powers as lieutenant-governor—Matthew Baillie Begbie, as chief justice; Hon. Wymond Hanley, collector of customs, and other heads, administered the affairs of the new colony. In 1861, in response to demands from the people for some form of representative government not favored by Douglas—a legislative council was brought into existence, which had three sessions at New Westminster before union was accomplished.

Along with the chief officials from England came the Royal Engineers, a corps of 400 strong, whose headquarters were at Sapperton and whose mission was to assist in the protection and development of the new colony. The Royal Engineers did excellent work in building roads and bridges and in surveying and making other public improvements. Among other important undertakings the Cariboo wagon road was begun by them from Yale, and in a large measure constructed by them or under their supervision.

Touching the selection of a site for the capital of the mainland, Langley was at first chosen, and town lots were sold by auction; but this was abandoned in favor of the present site of New Westminster. There was a dispute in official circles as to the name by which the latter was to be called. "But so great already was the jealousy of Victoria against the projected new city," says Sir Henry Crease, "that Queensborough was considered by the Colonial Secretary, Mr. W. A. G. Young, as too nearly a paraphrase of Victoria, the only permissible queen city, and after a great inkshed and a long, acrid correspondence, the name was proclaimed to be not the Queen borough (Victoria), but Queensborough, which was quite another thing. The dispute did not stop there, and finally it was referred to Her Majesty, and 'Queensborough' was converted into a Royal City of British Columbia, under the name of New Westminster, and on the faith of that many invested their all in it." Lots were sold at high prices by auction, on the understanding, so it is stated, that all the money from the proceeds of sale should be applied to opening up the streets and clearing the lots of timber "as large and as dense as the world could possibly produce," but the understanding was ignored and the purchasers were obliged to tax themselves to do the work for lack of the money which the government applied to other purposes.

The next logical step in the progress of the two colonies was their union. At first, it was strongly favored by Victoria and Vancouver Island and opposed by New Westminster and the lower mainland. Vancouver Island was comparatively small in area and circumscribed in opportunity. Victoria, being by far the more populous, wealthy and influential of the two cities, would naturally be the controlling factor of the united colonies, and the addition of the mainland would increase its commercial and political prestige. On the other hand, sectional feeling and local jealousy of Victoria and the Island of Vancouver developed a spirit of opposition in New Westminster and district. Besides, when the issue had reached its most feverish stage, in 1865, the mainland colony was the most prosperous. At the bottom of it all, however, was the question of which should be the capital city. New Westminster was afraid of the overpowering influence of Victoria, and Victoria was very hopeful and confident of its own chances on that score. There were two very important factors favorable to union, which finally prevailed. The expenses of civil government in both colonies were very high, and union meant a great saving in that respect. Governor Douglas from the outset strongly supported union and his views were shared by the Imperial Government, whose influence was all but paramount. The upper country had little interest in the subject, and favored, if anything, Victoria as a choice between two capitals. On the lower mainland it came to be felt at last that the uncertainty was interfering seriously with progress. In 1866 a petition in favor of union was signed by 450 persons. In the writer's "Life of Sir James Douglas" the following appears:

"In the end the British Government decided the question, and the authority of the executive government and council of British Columbia was extended over Vancouver Island, the number of members of the council being increased to twenty-three. The customs regulations of the mainland colony were likewise extended to the island. Other ordinances remained for a time as before. The original authority of the Governor to make regulations for peace order and good government was not restricted. The act bore date of August 6, 1866. A short time after, the attorney-general of Vancouver Island introduced a bill for assimilating its laws with those of British Columbia. There then remained only the question of the seat of government—a rock which the act of union had discreetly avoided. Amid the violent altercations of partisans, the choice fell on Victoria, and though the bitterness of the defeat rankled long on the mainland, no effort subsequently availed to secure a revision of the decision."

Events moved rapidly thereafter. Union in British Columbia was brought about contemporaneously with the movement in Eastern Canada towards Confederation, the central idea of which was the consolidation of the whole of British North America under one central government of Canada. No sooner, therefore, had union been accomplished locally than an agitation started in favor of Confederation, and it was an issue which, generally speaking, excited more interest than the lesser one already decided. Although sentiment in Vancouver Island, on the whole, was unfavorable to Confederation, the entire mainland, including Cariboo, then an important factor, was practically a unit in its favor. Old-time elements, represented by Sir James Douglas and Dr. J. S. Helmcken, the latter of whom was still an important public figure and widely influential, were in opposition, to some extent as a matter of sentiment easily understood; but in the case of Dr. Helmcken opposition was founded on something more substantial. He did not think the time ripe and argued that by waiting until the system had worked out satisfactorily in Eastern Canada, British Columbia would receive more consideration and could demand better terms than by applying for admission at the outset; and it must be admitted that subsequent events proved that there was much wisdom in his contention.

To go back a bit in the narrative, in order to make it complete, James Douglas retired as Governor of Vancouver Island in September, 1863, and was succeeded by Arthur Kennedy, who took up the duties of office in March, 1864. He continued as Governor of Vancouver Island for a time, and in 1864 was succeeded by Frederick Seymour, formerly Governor of Honduras.

Seymour strongly opposed the union of the colonies at first, but finally acquiesced. Upon the union of the two colonies, he became Governor of British Columbia, and was as strongly opposed to Confederation as he had been to union. James Douglas was knighted as a recognition of his eminent services, an honor that was richly merited, and upon his retirement took the opportunity he had long craved for, of visiting England and his old home in Scotland and of taking an extended trip on the continent of Europe. Upon his return to Victoria he sought the seclusion of private life and no longer took a part in public affairs.

To quote again from the pages of the "Life of Sir James Douglas," (Morang's series of the "Makers of Canada"): "On December 17, 1867, the legislature of British Columbia assembled for the first time at Victoria. The influence of Seymour, who had succeeded to the governorship of the united colonies, had hitherto retained for New Westminster this coveted distinction. Having yielded in one matter, the Governor and the opinion which he represented saw fit to bow to the majority in another and more important. No sooner had the confederation of the eastern colonies become an accomplished fact, than the admission of British Columbia to the Dominion of Canada was keenly debated. The Governor opposed it. A small party which favored annexation with the United States opposed it. The body of office-holders opposed it vigorously. At the first, the activity of these succeeded in shelving the question. Nevertheless, as early as March, 1868, a resolution passed the council in favor of the union, provided fair and equitable terms could be obtained. Public meetings at Victoria, Barkerville and other points, soon after, gave solid endorsement to the project. The sympathy of the Dominion itself was obtained, with special reference to the taking over of the intervening territory. A confederation league was formed and a convention held under its auspices at Yale. Here, perhaps for the first time, the movement found its full voice, the existing form of government being denounced as a despotism for which the only remedy was asserted to be the immediate admission of British Columbia into the Dominion and the establishment of responsible institutions."

(Just here, it may be stated parenthetically that the sentiments at the Yale convention represented rather the lucubration of extreme politicians than the solid views of the people of the province. There were no very substantial grievances against the government, in the same sense as confederation came about in old Canada as a result of an impossible system in which Upper and Lower Canada were tied together in an unnatural and conflicting alliance and continuously locked horns. The real thing which made confederation popular in British Columbia and carried the day for it was the hope afforded of ending a hopeless isolation by railway communication with the Atlantic seaboard. There was very little of sentiment mixed up in the agitation and certainly relief from misgovernment or a bad system of government, though a contributing factor, was not of itself sufficient to have decided the people in favor of a change.—R.E.G.)

"But the most potent of all the arguments for union was the promise which it held out of promoting overland communication with Canada. This it was that finally silenced the opposition of Seymour. In any event, the death of the Governor in 1869 led to the appointment of an avowed advocate of confederation, Anthony Musgrave, previously Governor of Newfoundland, and with an experience of administration gained in the West Indies. A tour of the colony which the new officer immediately undertook confirmed the view that the overwhelming sentiment of the population was in favor of confederation. On the back of this came formal instructions from England that the Governor should take steps, as he properly and constitutionally could, either in conjunction with the Governor General of Canada or otherwise, to promote the favorable consideration of the question. When the council, which had been reconstituted in 1869, met for the session of 1870, Musgrave had a series of resolutions prepared for its consideration. In a memorable debate which began on March 9, 1870, and lasted until the 25th, the terms on which British Columbia should become a part of the Dominion were definitely determined. On July 7 the news was received from Ottawa that the articles had been agreed upon, the construction of the transcontinental railway guaranteed, and the delegates, who had been sent to present the claims of the province already on their way home.

"The provisions upon which British Columbia entered confederation ensured in the first place that the Dominion should assume all debts and liabilities of the colony, allowance being made for the small amount of these compared with the original indebtedness of the other provinces. For the support of the provincial government an annual subsidy of $35,000, with an additional grant of 80 cents per head on an estimated population of 60,000, was promised, the latter allowance to be increased pro rata until the population reached 400,000. Canada was to defray all charges in respect to the salaries of the Lieutenant-Governor and of the judges of the superior and county or district courts—likewise of department of customs, the postal and telegraph services, the fisheries, the militia, the geological survey, the penitentiary, the marine department, the care of the Indians, and other matters pertaining to the general government. A fortnightly steam mail service between Victoria and San Francisco, and a weekly service with Olympia, were to be maintained by the Dominion. But the portion of the agreement which was of most absorbing interest to British Columbia was that which set forth in detail the terms on which the railway across the continent, now the dream of every section of the community, should be built, and which provided, in brief, that it should unite the seaboard of British Columbia with the railway system of Canada, and that its construction should be begun within two years of the date of union, the province conveying the necessary public lands along the line in trust to the Dominion Government. The Dominion also guaranteed the interest for ten years on a maximum sum of £100,000 to be expended on the construction of a graving dock at Esquimalt. The new province was given three seats in the Senate and six in the House of Commons. Finally, it was agreed that the constitution of the executive authority and of the legislature of British Columbia should continue until altered under the British North America Act, it being understood that the Dominion Government would consent to the introduction of responsible government when desired by the people of British Columbia, and that it was the intention of the British Columbia Government to amend the existing constitution of the legislature by providing that a majority of its members should be elective. The union was to take place on a date to be fixed by Her Majesty on addresses from the legislature of British Columbia and of the parliament of Canada, the former being granted leave to specify in its address the electoral districts for which the first election of members to serve in the House of Commons should take place.

"The document containing the terms of union reached Victoria on July 18, 1870. Meantime a representative had been despatched to England to secure the needed change in the constitution of the colony and the guarantee of the Imperial Government for the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway. For the election of the council, which for the first time in the history of the united colonies was preponderatingly representative in character, the colony was divided into eight electoral districts, consisting of Victoria city, Victoria district, Nanaimo, New Westminster, Hope, Yale and Lytton, Lillooet and Clinton, and Cariboo and Kootenay. Of these, Victoria city returned two members. The election was held in November, and the council met in January, 1871. The chief work of the session was, of course, the ratification of the terms of union previously agreed upon. This done, an act was passed abolishing the council and establishing a legislative assembly in its stead, the latter to be elected once in every four years and to consist of 24 members chosen by 12 electoral districts. Thus it was effected that responsible government should come into operation at the first session of the legislature subsequent to the union with Canada. A qualification and franchise act was passed and the council prorogued on March 28. On the same date, the resolutions for the admission of the colony were moved in the Canadian House of Commons, and, after a four days' discussion, were adopted. On July 1, 1871, the first Dominion Day was celebrated in British Columbia."

DATES IN OUR HISTORY

The following list of dates refer to important events which have had an influence in the development on the Pacific side of the continent and directly and indirectly upon affairs within the more narrow confines of British Columbia:

- 1776—Cook sails from England upon his third voyage round the world.
- 1778—Trading posts established on Athabasca or Elk River by Messrs. Frobisher and Pond.
- 1778—Captain Cook fails to find Strait of Juan de Fuca, but lands at Friendly Cove, Nootka Island, and explores the coast into Alaskan waters.
- 1779—Captain Cook murdered at the Hawaiian Islands by natives.
- 1783—Chelikof explores coasts between southwest extremity of Alaska and Prince William Sound.

Department of Industries.

Minister of Industries....The Hon. John Oliver

Commissioner.....D. B. Martyn

The powers, duties and functions of this department shall be as follows:

(a) To provide for industrial research; to co-ordinate as far as possible all industrial investigation and research; and to collect and disseminate data emanating therefrom:

(b) To acquire and utilize in arts and manufactures the knowledge already existing in other countries:

(c) To carry out an economic survey of the natural resources of the province, and to furnish advice in regard to the best methods of utilizing such resources:

(d) To furnish advice with regard to the best methods for attacking industrial problems, for inducing industrial improvements, and for facilitating and encouraging manufacture in suitable localities:

(e) To co-ordinate various industries so as to obtain the best combined results and the exchange between user and manufacturer of manufacturing improvements and operating experience, and to bring together producer, manufacturer and purchaser:

(f) To publish technical, scientific and statistical information, and to encourage technical and industrial study by all possible means:

(g) To enquire and report on and aid in the establishment of any industries in British Columbia where it appears that such industries can profitably be carried on:

(h) To consider and initiate scientific researches in connection with or for the promotion of primary or secondary industries in the province:

(i) To aid by loan, guarantee, or guarantee of securities on approved plans any enterprise calculated to encourage the economic and commercial manufacture of the natural resources or products of the province:

(j) To consider and deal with plans submitted by representative bodies of returned soldiers of British Columbia for promoting and providing for employment through the establishment of new industries and the development of existing industries:

(k) Generally for any other purpose calculated to promote the economic development of the province.

There shall be created an Advisory Council, to be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, consisting of not more than seven members, representative of the financial, commercial, industrial, manufacturing and labor interests of the province, who shall hold office for one year, and who shall advise and cooperate with the Minister of Industries and Industrial Commissioner under this Act. The Industrial Commissioner shall be chairman of the board. A majority in number of the members of the Advisory Council shall constitute a quorum. No salaries shall be paid to members of the Advisory Council, but reasonable and actual travelling expenses may be paid.

Notwithstanding any law or statute to the contrary, a member of the Legislature may be appointed as a member of the Advisory Council, and as such receive his expenses as in this section provided without thereby vacating his seat or contravening the provisions of the "Constitution Act."

Industrial Aid

The Minister of Industries may, upon the recommendation of the Advisory Council and with the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, authorize and agree upon assistance to any person, partnership, association, company or corporation, by way of loan, guarantee, or guarantee of securities, upon such terms and subject to such conditions as he may think fit, for the purpose of aiding and developing industries and manufactories within the scope of this Act; and with like approval the Minister of Industries may establish, maintain, and operate such industries and manufactories.

For the purpose of providing funds to be used in making advances by way of loan pursuant to this Act, there is hereby created a special fund in the Treasury, to be known as the "Industrial Development Fund," which shall consist of:—

- (a) Such moneys as may be appropriated by or under the authority of the Legislature for the purposes of this Act:
- (b) All sums received by way of interest on or repayment of any advance made by way of loan pursuant to this Act.

The Honorable the Provincial Secretary and Minister in charge of the Education Office is in charge of the administration of the Education Office, the Provincial Museum, the Printing Office, the Provincial Board of Health, all Mental Hospitals, the Provincial Home, the Legislative Library, and the Civil Service Commission.

The Provincial Secretary's Office is the official medium of communication between his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and the Executive Council, and has charge of all Orders-in-Council as well as being the custodian of the Great Seal. The office also deals with the administration of the Provincial Elections Act, the Hospital Act, and the Civil Service Act. It has also charge of all matters respecting destitute poor and sick in unorganized districts throughout the province, the appointment and administration of the Hospital Act, including grants to hospitals, refuge homes and charitable institutions, the University of British Columbia, royal commissions, the appointment of notaries public and commissioners under the Evidence Act, and other matters of a similar nature.

Department of Education

British Columbia enjoys the advantages of a free non-sectarian system of public and high schools. This system, established in 1872, has been modified from time to time. Thus, for example, when the system was first established the full cost of erecting school houses, paying the salaries of the teachers and meeting the incidental expenses of the various districts, was met by the Provincial Government out of the consolidated revenue fund of the province. At present only newly established schools, termed Assisted Schools, and schools in the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway Belt are supported entirely, in so far as teachers' salaries are concerned, by the Provincial government. All other schools receive grants from the provincial treasury, but depend for their main support upon taxes levied in the municipalities or in the rural school districts as the case may be.

The total enrolment at all the public and high schools for the year ending June 30, 1919, was 72,006. The percentage of regular attendance was 78.73. The total number of teachers employed was 2,332. Of this number 197 were employed in the high schools, 957 in the city graded schools, 549 in the rural municipality schools, and 629 in the rural and assisted schools. There were 45 high schools maintained during the year, these being established in the more settled districts throughout the province, or wherever there are available twenty children who have succeeded in passing the high school entrance examination.

The total cost of education for the year was $1,228,719.92 of which amount the cities, municipalities, rural and assisted districts contributed $2,437,566.45, while the grant from the provincial treasury amounted to $1,791,153.47.

Elementary Agricultural Education in British Columbia

The Agricultural Education Branch of the Department of Education was instituted for the purpose of developing in and through the public and high schools of the province a greater interest in the cultivation of the soil and in the production of plants and animals. This is done by linking up with the usual nature study courses the operative side of instruction as carried on in school and home gardens and other home studies in agriculture. This instruction is given directly by the teacher with or without assistance. Summer courses in rural science are held for five weeks annually to afford opportunities to teacher to get special training for this work. The District Supervisors of Agricultural Instruction assist public school teachers in their respective districts. Their duties consist in:

(1) To give a course in Agriculture, extending over two years, to students in attendance in high school,

(2) To assist the public school teachers of adjoining rural districts in carrying out a course of instruction in Elementary Agriculture and school or home gardening,

(3) To conduct extension or continuation classes in Agriculture at suitable points in each district during the Winter months, open to boys and young men and women not in regular attendance at high school.

(4) To incidentally advise with farmers throughout the district regarding such practical agricultural problems as they are immediately concerned with.

The planning and improvement of school grounds also comes under this branch. School Boards are assisted in effecting such improvements as are agreed on and are supplied with trees and shrubs for planting the grounds. These are secured from the schools department, Provincial Nursery, Essondale.

Provincial Board of Health

The Provincial Board of Health consists of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, the Honourable the Provincial Secretary being Chairman. The departmental head is known as the Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health.

The Provincial Board of Health deals with all matters pertaining to the health of the community. The province is divided into districts over which a local medical officer, known as the Medical Officer of Health of the district, presides and who reports directly to the Provincial Board of Health on all matters of contagious diseases, sanitation and the general health of the public.

There is a Department of Sanitation, consisting of Chief Sanitary Inspector and all of the constables of the Provincial Police, who are responsible for the sanitary conditions in their districts, particularly in the public works of construction, railroad construction work and lumber camps.

The Medical Inspection of Schools is another branch of the department and all school children of the province are examined medically once a year.

The Vital Statistics Branch of the Provincial Board of Health keeps records of all the births, deaths and marriages in the province. The province is divided into registration divisions and government officials act as Deputy Registrars, reporting to the head office, and in the head office the original certificates of all births, deaths and marriages are kept.

In this department it is absolutely essential that we should have, as near as possible, the correct knowledge of the population of the province in order that our percentages of births, deaths and marriages may be kept in such a way as to show us from year to year increases or decreases.

The plan formed to arrive at this data from year to year, is to base our figures upon the enrolment of school children in the province. We are able to arrive at the number of school children exactly as we have monthly reports from every school in the province and it has been found by comparison with other authorities, who are endeavouring to find the population but by employing other methods, that there is a wonderful agreement as to the results obtained by each.

The plan adopted in regard to basing the population on the number of school children varies in the different localities and we follow the rule of making allowances for points where there is a large transient population. Where we have such a population we multiply the number of school children in the district by $6\frac{1}{2}$, whereas in an agricultural district where residence is fixed, we multiply by $5\frac{1}{2}$. For example, in Vancouver City we have 17,773 multiplied by $6\frac{1}{2}$ making 115,524. In the Fraser delta, an agricultural district, the number of school children enrolled was 3,778 multiplied by $5\frac{1}{2}$ gives a population of 20,779. The two classes total us an enrolment of 71,486 and a population of 149,187, to which must be added the Indians—24,744, giving a total population of 464,931.

Registration of births, deaths or marriages may be made at any Government office in the province.

Provincial Library and Archives

The Provincial Library occupies a new wing of the parliament buildings, and is one of the finest libraries in the Dominion. It is fireproof throughout, and equipped with all modern library appliances. The collection contains upwards of 100,000 volumes, in every department of knowledge. As it is a reference library, the books must be consulted in the library, but in special cases a book may be loaned from the library upon application to the librarian.

The collection of Northwest Americana containing books, prints, maps and manuscripts relating to the history of the Pacific Northwest is of special interest, as also the archives collection containing many original letters and documents bearing on the early history of the province.

Where persons reside at a distance, or for any reason are unable to call personally at the library, an information service is provided, and upon written request to the librarian for information the full resources of the library on any particular subject will be made known, and, where possible, reading lists and excerpts will be furnished.

There are upwards of three hundred newspapers and periodicals received regularly in the reading room, and as all back numbers of these are preserved in a large filing room, reference may be made to them at any time; cumulative indexes being provided for most papers to facilitate reference.

The travelling library system provides rural districts with small collections of books. Full particulars may be obtained upon application to the Superintendent of Travelling Libraries, Parliament Buildings.

When the legislature is not in session the library and archives department is open to the public daily from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m., Saturdays, 9 a.m. till 1 p.m.

Provincial Museum of Natural History

The objects of this museum are to secure and preserve specimens illustrating the natural history of the province; to collect anthropological material relating to the aboriginal races of the province; to obtain information respecting the natural sciences relating particularly to the natural history of the province, and to increase and diffuse knowledge regarding the same.

The museum is an institution for the preservation of those objects which best illustrate nature, and the work of man and the use of these for the increase of knowledge, and for the culture and enlightenment of the people; its special functions being to preserve and utilize objects of nature and works of art and industry. It supplies a need, which is felt in every intelligent community and which cannot be supplied by any other agency.

If in your travels you should visit Vietoria, Vancouver Island, be sure you see the provincial museum. You will see there many strange and wonderful things, and if you have time to listen, stories will be told you woven about these exhibits that will make your visit a not-to-be-forgotten pleasure.

Do you care for the glories of the chase? Go into the great hallway devoted to British Columbia's big game, and see for yourself some of the finest specimens of moose, cariboo, wapiti, sheep and bear, etc., that are to be found on the American continent.

Are you a lover of the weird and mysterious? The Indian legends told on the many totems here brought together would, if written down, fill a series of large volumes by themselves.

It was on December 2, 1886, that the museum was formally opened up in a room 20 x 12, with no work-shop attached; the curator was simply told that he must make the most of it until better quarters were provided. On May 24, 1889, the museum was removed to the old supreme court building, and the work of building up the institution commenced in real earnest. Gradually but surely the development of the museum advanced until again the accommodation was totally inadequate. Then in 1898 it was moved to its present quarters in the eastern section of the parliament buildings; but it has outgrown those premises, and there should be erected now a building, twice as large and specially designed for museum purposes, and until such a house is secured, the perfection of the collections must naturally be retarded. The provincial museum being essentially a British Columbia museum, necessarily contains only those specimens obtained within its borders, hence none of them were procured by exchange with other parts of the continent, so that the value of a collection so truly local in its formation is incalculable.

The collection is worthy of a large building, and is a credit not only to the government under whose direction it is managed, but to the people of the province, whose individual efforts have done as much to assist its growth in the way of contributions, as very many specimens now in the museum have been presented by friends to the institution from every portion of the province.

The ethnological collection is unique, being the finest one of local relics extant, and when it is considered that the Indian is fast learning the white man's ways, many of the specimens will be hard to duplicate, if at all possible.

The grouping of mammals and birds which is now the principal feature in all museums, has been initiated here, and groups shown with their natural surroundings at a glance teach a person as to their habits and life history. The museum contains good collections, embracing as it does many fine and rare specimens.

The ornithological, or bird collection, too, is admirable and complete, not only every familiar feathered friend being met with, but specimens being on view of birds entirely new to British Columbia, if not to the Pacific Coast, and the museum collection intelligently read offers incontrovertible evidence of the constantly changing distribution of the birds of the world.

The fishes of the province are fairly well represented, both in alcoholic specimens and casts, the latter method being now almost entirely employed in representing the fishes, and so far with satisfactory results.—F. Kernod, director.

Civil Service Commission

The Civil Service Act came into effect July 1, 1918. The functions of the commission are:

First, to determine the organization necessary for adequately and economically performing the public service.

Second, to appoint the staff necessary to complete this organization.

Under the Civil Service Act the power of dismissal is segregated from the power of appointment. The power of dismissal lies in the head of the department or in the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. The power of appointment lies with the Civil Service Commission to whom all applications should be made. All appointments to the civil service are now made under competitive conditions. Applications are called for by advertisements published in the B. C. Gazette and in the public press. Where possible competitive examinations are used, sometimes written, sometimes viva voce, and frequently both.

The University of British Columbia is an integral part of the Provincial system of education. It supplements and completes the instruction and training given in the elementary, high and vocational schools of the Province. The development of the high, best type of Canadian citizenship is its fundamental aim. Its purpose is to establish on the British Pacific Coast constantly improving facilities for developing scholarship and culture, and maintaining high standards of thought and conduct. These are the prime essentials of university education, towards the promotion of which all academic effort must contribute.

As means to these ends, the University offers to every resident of British Columbia, at a minimum of expense, opportunity for acquiring a thorough education in the liberal arts, and practical training specifically adapted to the requirements, conditions and resources of the Province. It not only undertakes to furnish instruction in the various branches of a liberal education, but to relate that education, through its technical departments, to the life, industry and development of British Columbia. Further, it aims to vitalize its teaching by contributing its share to the general advancement of knowledge, through the prosecution and encouragement of research. In several important directions the University has already proved its value as an investigational institution.

The University was established by an Act of the Provincial Legislature in 1908. This Act provides that the institution shall give instruction in all branches of liberal education that qualify for degrees in Science, Commerce, Arts, Literature, Law, Medicine and other branches of knowledge, and that all such instruction shall be of a type designed to be of greatest service to the residents of British Columbia. Control of the institution is vested in the Chancellor, Board of Governors, Senate, President and Faculty. The institution is non-sectarian, and women students are admitted on terms of equality with men. It is the sole degree-conferring body in the Province.

REGISTER OF JOINT STOCK COMPANIES

The incorporation and registration of companies and associations under sundry statutes constitute the general work of the office, together with the filing of the various prescribed returns, such as annual reports, mortgages, etc.

The chief Acts administered are: Companies Act, Trust Companies Act, Benevolent Societies Act, Cemetery Companies Act, Charitable Associations Act, Co-operative Associations Act, Investment and Loan Societies Act, Rural Telephone Act, Mutual Fire Insurance Companies Act.

Extra-provincial concerns are authorized to carry on business under the Companies Act and Trust Companies Act.

Default in filing its returns renders a company liable to dissolution under the provisions of the Companies Act.

All documents recorded are open to inspection by the public in the office, or information may be obtained by letter, there being a nominal fee of 25 cents for any search. Copies of documents will also be furnished at the charge of 10 cents per folio of 100 words.

Inquiries will receive prompt attention.

H. G. Garrett, Registrar.

SUPERINTENDENT OF INSURANCE

Insurance companies must be licensed under the British Columbia Fire Insurance Act and the Insurance Act according to the class of business carried on. Security has to be demonstrated in every case, unless the company holds a Dominion license. Licenses expire on June 30th each year.

In March the companies file their annual reports. Other returns may also be required.

The tax of 2 per cent. on premiums for fire insurance is collected by the department from licensed companies, and also when the insurance has been placed outside the province with unlicensed insurers.

Reports of all fires occurring in the province are filed in the office and statistics compiled. Inquiry into suspicious fires and investigation of conditions likely to cause fire are also conducted.

Documents on file are open to inspection and copies can be obtained.

H. G. Garrett, Superintendent.

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA PROHIBITION ACT

The British Columbia Prohibition Act came into force on the 1st of October, 1917. Amendments were passed on 23rd April, 1918, and 28th March, 1919.

The Act was passed, as stated in the preamble, "to suppress the liquor traffic in British Columbia by prohibiting proximal transactions in liquor." It is administered by an officer known as the Prohibition Commissioner, appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

"Liquor" is defined as including all fermented spirituous and malt liquors and all combinations thereof, and all liquids which are intoxicating, and any liquid which contains more than two and one-half per cent. of proof spirits."

Vendors, "who shall keep for sale such liquors as are required for medicinal, manufacturing, mechanical, scientific and sacramental purposes only," are appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

The Government Liquor Store in Vancouver is situated at 722 Pender Street West and is under the charge of G. T. Rogers, Vendor. The Liquor Store in Victoria is situated at 777 Yates Street and is under the charge of T. H. Harvie, Vendor. The Government Liquor Warehouse situated at 847 Beatty Street, Vancouver, is under the charge of H. A. Fairbairn, Manager.

The Prohibition Department is under the Honorable the Attorney-General.

The Commissioner is Lieut.-Col. J. Selater, D.S.O. Parliament Buildings, Victoria.

The above particulars are necessarily given in abbreviated form for information only. References for precise details and information should be made to the Act and amendments, copies of which can be obtained on application to the Commissioner.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION

The Public Utilities Act, 1919, provides for the appointment of one person as a Public Utilities Commissioner. The Act provides that it shall be the duty of any public utility company to furnish adequate service, to furnish service without discrimination or delay, to obey orders of the Public Utilities Commission, imposes restrictions as to rates and service, reduced rates or rebates are prohibited, changes of rates and establishment of new rates must be approved by the Commission, must secure approval by Commissioner of issue of securities, opposes restrictions as to capitalization of franchisees as to disposal of assets or merger with any other public utility companies, amalgamation subject to approval of Commission, restricts as to sale of shares to other corporations. Additional conditions are imposed on telegraph, telephone or transmission lines in respect of rights of municipalities, general supervision of which is vested in the Commission. The Commissioner shall hold office during good behavior for a period of ten years, salary to be fixed by Lieutenant-Governor in Council. Commission has certain powers to vary existing orders of Minister of Railways, and may have jurisdiction extending to performance of all duties and exercise of all powers under any Act of Legislature imposed on or vested in the Commission, may issue mandatory and restraining orders, is vested with certain powers of the Supreme Court, and has jurisdiction as to receivers and may grant extensions of time. Findings conclusive in certain cases; may enforce orders by taking possession of and managing the business of a public utility company. Appeals may lie to the Court of Appeal on questions which are not questions of jurisdiction or of law. Lieutenant-Governor in Council may grant leave to appeal; defines offences and imposes penalties. The Commissioner may make regulations providing tariff of fees in respect of any matter within the jurisdiction of the Commission.

Commissioner—J. L. Retallack.

Court House, Vancouver.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BOARD

Board of Trade Building, Vancouver

Chairman	E. S. H. Winn
Commissioner	H. B. Gilmour
Commissioner	Parker Williams
Secretary	F. W. Hoisdale
		Victoria office: Gost & Superior Sts.
Auditor	Henry Robertson

The "Workmen's Compensation Act," which became effective January 1st, 1917, applies to all industrial employment except farm laborers and domestic servants.

The Act is administered by three competent Commissioners, and the chief features of the Board's work may be summarized as follows:—

(1.) It abolishes completely the whole system of litigation arising out of industrial accidents.

(2.) It establishes a new system whereby every workman injured in industry, automatically, after the first three days, becomes entitled to 55 per cent. of his wages lost on account of accident.

(3.) It provides for medical, surgical, hospital treatment, nursing, medicine, crutches, apparatus, and artificial members for injured workmen.

(4.) It improves the relations between the employer and his employees by reason of its operations, taking the settlement of disputes out of the realm of private controversy, the employer and his employee now having a common interest in seeing that those entitled to compensation receive the amount due them.

(5.) It promotes the prevention of accidents by removing all incentive to conceal the cause, and thereby making possible an open and frank investigation as to the real reason of the happening of the accident, whereby a recurrence of a similar accident may be prevented. By removing all causes of anxiety as to who is to blame a forward step is taken in the work of accident-prevention.

(6.) It provides methods for accident-prevention measures and also permits of the passing of regulations for the installation of safeguards.

(7.) It provides for the payment of stated regular sums to widows and children of the victims of industry instead of payment of a lump sum by way of damages, thereby assuring to the dependents a continued assistance towards their support, and thus preventing the probability of their becoming dependent upon public or private charity.

(8.) It avoids great economic loss involved in making payment to injured workmen through liability insurance companies, whose expenses absorb the major portion of the employer's money, such portion being waste so far as the employer and injured workmen are concerned.

Under this Act the sums paid by the employers to the Board is used directly for the purpose for which it is intended—namely, payment of compensation to the injured workmen. No third parties whatever are permitted to make a profit out of the misery and distress of workmen maimed or crippled in industry.

Up to June 1st, 1919, over 43,000 accidents have been reported, upon which has been paid in compensation alone the sum of over $1,300,000. Claims are adjusted on an average of from five to seven days after the reports are received from all parties affected.

There has been set aside, by way of reserve, moneys to pay pensions for widows and dependents of deceased workmen, as well as for maimed and injured workmen in accidents that have happened, over $1,000,000, so that the part of compensation and the so created reserve to date amount to over $2,400,000. All of these moneys, save administration cost of less than 5 per cent., reach the injured workmen. In order that the reserve so set aside should earn more than bank interest, the Act requires the Board to invest it, with the result that so far the reserves have earned over 6 per cent. interest. Pensions amounting to about $10,000 per month are now being paid to over 500 widows and children of deceased workmen and to those who have suffered serious and permanent impairment of earning power.

There has been paid out for medical and surgical treatment, hospital treatment, nursing, etc., over $450,000. A workman hereunder is entitled to and receives the best possible attention.

Employers and workmen generally are heartily co-operating with the Board in complying with its safety regulations, the enforcement of which have shown a gratifying decrease in the number of accidents, which in the past were mainly due to defective or unguarded machinery.

All communications should be addressed to the Workmen's Compensation Board, Board of Trade Building, Vancouver.

Land

The Province of British Columbia has a total area of 238,489,600 acres, of which 33,722,370 has been disposed of as follows:

Acres
Crown granted	12,726,274
In process of alienation	2,982,082
Transferred to Dominion Govt.	14,775,680
Railway grants	4,338,334

This leaves 204,747,230 acres, the title of which is at the Crown, made up as follows:

Acres
Timber leases and licenses	8,458,189
Coal leases and licenses	729,502
Grazing and other leases	37,044
Reserves:
Indian	712,571
Park	940,166
Game	895,120
Timber	1,686,141
For university	771,491
For sale by auction	189,000
Grazing and other reserves	102,000

A total of 23,979,778 acres, augmented by the acreage which reverted under the Soldiers' Homestead Act, including 1,887,000 acres of surveyed land, has been surveyed for pre-emption.

Grazing.

Under the Grazing Act passed in 1919, a Grazing Commissioner was appointed under the Minister of Lands, to administer the Grazing regulations framed to secure co-operative control and management of the ranges, and improve the live-stock industry on sound, economic lines. Grazing areas have been divided into districts, and the range divided and allotted, stock associations being organized to co-operate with the Department in range management and improvement. Range is allotted on a permit system based on a per capita basis of the numbers and classes of stock ranged, due provision being made to protect the established stock-grower, settlers and others, and protect permittees in use of the range. Free range is provided for small settlers up to ten head of stock.

Further information may be obtained from the Grazing Commissioner, Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C.

Surveyor-General's Office

The duties of this office are governed by the provisions of the Land Act and include the supervision of all Crown Lands surveys as well as surveys in general throughout the Province.

Maps of the Province, and of various sections are prepared by the Surveyor-General's Office; these include Electoral Districts, Mining, Land Registry, Land Recording, Pre-emptors' Maps showing vacant land, etc, etc., and are supplied at a nominal charge.

Surveyor-General

Land Registry Districts

These districts are described by Order-in-Council and notice in the British Columbia Gazette.

It may be noted in the first place Victoria was the only Registration District, covering the whole of the Province. New Westminster was created by Order in Council, see Gazette 1881, pag. 265. The Electoral Districts of New Westminster, New Westminster City, and Coast District are defined by Schedule 1 to Bill No. 147, Revised Laws of B. C. 1871, page 521. The Public Notice, referred to in this Schedule is in the B. C. Gazette, 1870, page 3.

Kootenay was established 17th January 1901. See Gazette 1901, page 141.

Prince Rupert. This District was established 19th January, 1909. See Gazette 1909, page 1157.

AGENT-GENERAL FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA
B. C. House, 1 and 2 Regent St., London, Eng.
Agent-General

The Department of Finance, as the name indicates, has control of all the province's financial transactions, the levying and collection of taxes, and the making of all disbursements. The general taxes collected through the agency of the several assessors and collectors throughout the province are paid into the treasury, and all receipts from licence and other fees and royalties collected by other departments are also dealt with by this department.

The Deputy Minister has, under the Minister, complete supervision of all branches of the Department and of the outside agencies. The Inspector of Revenue acts as his assistant and pays particular attention to revenue matters.

Surveyor of Taxes

The Surveyor of Taxes is in charge of the assessors and collectors in the thirty assessment districts into which the province is at present divided. He has general oversight of the collection of all taxes. This branch of the department has been reorganized with a view to a more thorough and complete assessment of all taxable properties, and collection of all taxes and arrears from every source.

Comptroller-General

The Controlling and Audit branch of the department has been reorganized by the present minister and is now exceptionally strong. At the head of the branch is the Comptroller-General, an officer of the Legislative Assembly, and responsible to it alone. The general duties of the Comptroller-General include the exercise of general supervision over all matters relating to this branch of the service; responsibility for the proper audit of all accounts, both at Victoria and, through the medium of travelling auditors in all the Government agencies throughout the province; and general direction of the keeping of the accounts of the province. These accounts have to be kept by double entry and in such manner that there shall be shown at all times the standing of legislative appropriations and of all other accounts, and the precise condition of the province. By the adoption of the pre-audit system, the Comptroller-General has to be satisfied as to every proposed payment before the payment is made, thus securing a real control over the expenditure of public moneys. Under the Comptroller-General, in this connection, is an Auditor of Disbursements. For the purpose of exercising an audit over the collection of revenue, and further ensuring that collections are fully made, there is under the Comptroller-General an Auditor of Revenue.

Purchasing Agent

The third division of this branch is that of the Purchasing Agent. Through this official all purchases, of whatever kind, which may be required for public service, are made, and under his control is all movable property of the province. It is anticipated that a very large saving will be effected through the creation of this division of the Controlling and Audit branch. Duplication of plant and materials will be avoided; plant and machinery lying idle at any point can be moved to where they will be of service, and all old or surplus property will be sold instead of being allowed to deteriorate and become a source of loss.

Inspector of Trust Companies

Inspection of trust companies is within the jurisdiction of the Minister of Finance. The Inspector of Trust Companies is in charge of the collection of probate and succession duties, a large and important source of revenue.

The collection of the amusement tax is made under the supervision of the Minister of Finance.

LAND SETTLEMENT BOARD

Head Office, Government and Superior Sts., Victoria. Branches at Vanderhoof and Telkwa for convenience of incoming settlers.

The following is a brief outline of the activities and policy of the Provincial Land Settlement Board of British Columbia, operating under authority of the "Land Settlement and Development Act", 1917, chapter 37, and Amendments thereto, and under the direction of the Minister of Agriculture.

owners. A large proportion of these 18,000 acres is in the newer settlement areas, which have not yet been declared open for allotment. This will be done in the near future.

Up to the present no improvement or development has been carried out in the settlement areas, but it is expected that one or two of them may have to be turned into development areas in order that a certain proportion of the land may be cleared and other improvements made before being sold to settlers. Returned soldiers being given the preference in every case.

Land Settlement Areas

The Department dealing with the Land Settlement Areas, operates to put into effect Section 45, A to R, of the "Land Settlement and Development Act", whereby the Board is authorized to establish Settlement Areas, appraise and purchase (compulsorily or otherwise) lands within said Areas and to re-convey same to bona fide settlers at a fair valuation, thereby populating each Area with farmers and increasing agricultural production by bringing under cultivation hitherto unoccupied lands held by absentee owners or Land Speculators.

Settlement areas established to date	Seven
Acreage appraised and valued	1,049,969 acres
Acreage acquired	29,946
Acreage allotted and resold	10,253
Number of settlers established	68
(principally returned soldiers)

Acreage available for settlement at this date in the various Areas is about 18,000 acres, to which is daily being added lands that are being acquired from absentee

The Board plans to carry on the work of appraising, valuing and acquiring large tracts throughout Central British Columbia during the coming summer in order to have as much new land as possible available for settlement.

Land Development Areas

Operating particularly under Section 42 of the "Land Settlement and Development Act" for the purpose of reclaiming and making fit for agricultural purposes, logged off or other lands at present unfit for cultivation, and at the same time, assist in the rehabilitation of the returned soldiers.

Areas in portions of Southern British Columbia have been established where work is now proceeding and where returned men are at work on the various phases of development, surveying, land clearing, road making, house building, well digging, ploughing, draining, etc.

Number of areas established..... four Acreage purchased in areas..... 22,000 acres
 Number of returned men employed..... 350

Estimated number of farms:

At Merville Area No. 1, 50 to 100 ac. each..... 120
 At Creston Area No. 2, 20 to 40 ac. each..... 250
 At Kelowna Area No. 3, 10 to 30 ac. each..... 24
 At Fernie Area No. 4, 40 to 60 ac. each..... 25

Estimated length of time required to complete—2 years.

The general policy governing above operations is that cost of development is charged up to the land, only returned soldiers are employed, the basic wage is $4.00 a day, minus board. Temporary housing is provided for married men and their families. Stores are operated for the accommodation of employees, and when areas are developed to the point where they become fit for agricultural purposes, the Board's employees, if they are qualified as farmers are given the first chance on the allotment of farms.

A very strict Cost System is installed by the Board in order to check up all costs and accounts in connection with these undertakings, report on and compare such costs so as to arrive at the most economical methods of operation and development, and to arrive at the exact cost of individual farms.

A Purchasing Department is operated within the Board for the purpose of purchasing all equipment and supplies.

A field of oats near Smithers; also one of the boys whom we want later on to work with the soil.

Agricultural Credit

Loans are being made to farmers for the purpose of promoting agricultural production under Section 16 to 40 of the "Land Settlement and Development Act". These loans are advanced for acquiring and improving land, erecting buildings, purchasing live stock, machinery, etc., discharging liabilities incurred for such purposes and for other similar uses which may be approved by the Board. The loan is not to exceed sixty per cent. of the value of the land offered as security. It is not to be less than $250.00 nor more than $10,000.00 to any one borrower. The present rate of interest is seven and one half per cent. per annum. (See pamphlet Loan Department.)

Cattle Clubs

In order to encourage farmers in outlying and sparsely settled districts in the purchase of good grade cattle, cattle clubs are formed to have a minimum membership of six, and money is furnished by the Board for the purchase of stock, payment of freight, and other expenses. Usually the Live Stock

Commissioner or other reliable buyer is delegated by the Board to assist in the purchase of these cattle. Moneys advanced by the Board are secured by Joint and several Lien Notes. Terms of repayment consist of fifteen per cent. cash, balance payable in one and two years at seven and one half per cent. per annum, each note to be endorsed by six members of the club of recognized standing.

Reclamation

The Board acts as Dyking Commissioners for the Sumas Dyking District, the Nicomen Island Dyking District and Cameron Lake Drainage System, under Sections 43 and 44 of the "Land Settlement and Development Act". The Board is undertaking the dyking of Sumas Prairie and draining Sumas Lake, which will reclaim for agricultural purposes 10,000 acres now practically under water, besides an additional 18,000 acres which will be made safe from Fraser Valley floods. Plans and estimates are prepared for this work and tenders being called for. Cost is estimated at a million and a half, length of time for completion, three years.

Mineral Production for 1919.

The following table shows the quantities and value of the several minerals produced in the year 1918, and the estimated production in 1919. It may here be explained that the prices used in calculating the estimated value for 1919 of silver, lead, copper, and zinc are the average prices for the year, as published in The Engineering and Mining Journal, New York, less a deduction of 5 per cent. off silver, 10 per cent. off lead, and 15 per cent. off zinc.

Production of Various Minerals Briefly Reviewed.

In order to indicate in a general way the sources of the various minerals mined in the Province and to give an idea of some of the conditions that affected their production, and, incidentally, brief information concerning the larger known mineral deposits occurring in British Columbia, the next following comments are submitted.

GOLD

Placer Gold.—The recovery of placer gold for 1919 is estimated at $286,500, of which practically all is obtained in the Cariboo and Cassiar Districts, only about one-twentieth of the total coming from the other districts. An approximate apportionment is as follows: From Cariboo District, $80,000; Atlin Division of Cassiar District, $175,000; Stikine and Liard, $18,000; remaining parts of the Province, $13,500. It may be that a larger yield will be shown, but this cannot be definitely stated until after the final returns of the season's operations shall have been received. This estimated production for 1919 shows a decrease from the preceding year of $43,500, or about 11 per cent.

During the last four years the production of placer gold in the Province has steadily decreased. The chief reason is to be found in the economic conditions of high prices for labor and supplies, which made placer mining less profitable than in former years. Shortage of labor also handicapped operations.

No definite information is available regarding the Atlin Division, but it is known that the production was considerably less than in 1918, and that some of the former operating companies were closed down during the year.

Lode Gold.—The quantity of lode gold produced in 1919 is estimated at $2,930,365, as compared with $3,403,812 in 1918, a decrease of $473,447, or 14 per cent.

The decrease in 1919 is due to a big reduction in output from Boundary-Yale District, a decline of approximately $500,000 as compared with 1918. During the year the Granby Company closed its mines and smelter in this district and therefore only made a small production. The low-grade copper ore handled carries small gold and silver values, and in former years this gold production amounted to a considerable total. The Nickel Plate mine in this district also made a decreased production.

The Rossland mines, which prior to 1917 contributed annually about one-half of the output of lode gold, made about the same production in 1919 as in the preceding year; during these two years about one-quarter the normal output was made.

The following table shows the gold production of 1918 and the estimated production for 1919:—

	1918. Oz.	1919. Oz.
Boundary-Yale	56,169	30,952
Rossland	43,745	43,620
Cassiar District	48,016	59,779
Coast (Southern)	5,565	4,327
Lillooet	2,473	2,575
Nelson	7,155	153
All others	1,551	363
Totals	164,674	141,769

From the above table it will be seen that the only districts to show an increase are the Cassiar and Lillooet Districts. In the latter case the increase was small. The increase in Skeena is due to a larger output from the Surf Inlet mine, and the commencement of new shippers—viz., the Premier in the Salmon River section and the Dolly Varden mine in the Alice Arm section. The outlook for the future in this latter district is most promising and a largely increased production of gold and other metals may be expected.

The decrease in Nelson Division is large and is mainly due to the Yankee Girl mine being closed all year. Developments in this district at present under way may bring the production up again to that of former years.

The production of gold in British Columbia during each of the last three years has only been about one-half that of those years before the war, and shows that gold-mining in this Province has, as elsewhere in the world, been adversely affected by the conditions of high costs and a standard price for the product. Nevertheless, from the developments now in progress it would seem that in a short time the annual production of gold in British Columbia should increase considerably.

SILVER.

The quantity of silver produced is estimated to have been about 3,667,516 oz., worth $3,871,063, an increase from the production of 1918 of 169,344 oz., and, owing to the higher market value of silver, a larger percentage increase in value of $853,193.

The market price of silver gradually rose during the year, the average for January being 101.125 cents an ounce, while in December it was about 132 cents. The average for the year was 111.103 cents (December estimated), the highest that silver has been for many years back. The prospect of silver maintaining its present price of well over $1 an ounce is good, and in this respect the silver market is in marked contrast to the other metals, the future prices of which are uncertain.

The following table shows the silver production for 1918 and the estimated production for 1919:

	1918. Oz.	1919. Oz.
Slocan and Slocan City ..	1,873,236	1,917,663
Skeena	416,616	908,685
Fort Steele	261,497	236,750
Boundary-Yale	228,561	150,684
Ainsworth	228,699	112,433
Coast (Southern)	116,425	119,308
Windermere-Golden	91,784	80,423
Nelson	136,738	53,454
Omineca	84,125	42,150
All others	60,491	45,966
Totals	3,498,172	3,667,516

An increase total production for 1919 of 169,344 oz. of silver.

The above table shows an increase in the silver production from the Slocan, Skeena, and Coast (Southern) Districts, and decreases in all the others.

Two factors have affected silver production during the year, one favorably and the other adversely. In the first place, the high market price of silver has been a great incentive to the mining of silver-bearing ores. On the other hand, the lessened demand and lowered market price of all other metals has led to the curtailment of output in many mining camps where silver is produced merely as a by-product. British Columbia has practically no mines producing exclusively silver, but the silver-lead-zinc ores of the Sloean District have a high percentage of their values in silver. In this connection it may be noted that about 75 per cent. of the total Provincial output of silver comes from the treatment of silver-lead-zinc ores and the balance mainly from the smelting of copper-gold-silver ores.

A reference to the notes on copper will show that the production of that metal has decreased this year about 25 per cent. as compared with last year, and as all our copper ores carry some silver, the lessened tonnage of copper ores smelted has reduced the silver production by the amount of the content of such ores. Considering these facts, the increased production of silver in 1919 as compared with 1918 is gratifying.

Most increase was made in the Skeena District and is accounted for by new shippers entering the lists. Two of these, the Premier and the Dolly Varden mines, give promise of swelling the silver production very materially during future years.

The Sloean District is again far in the lead of all other districts in silver production, 52 per cent. of the total being credited in the Sloean. The figures for this year indicate an increased production for the Sloean, as compared with last year, of about 2.3 per cent.

The largest producers in the Sloean were the Hewitt-Van Boi, Surprise, Queen Bess, Silversmith, and the Standard. There were nearly forty shipping mines in the district in 1919.

About 50 per cent. of the silver-output from the Boundary District comes from the Granby Company's mines at Phoenix. Other mines contributing are the Mother Lode, Sally, and Union.

The silver production from Trail Creek comes from the smelting of the gold-copper-ores of Rossland camp, which carry about $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. of silver to the ton.

The Coast production of silver comes from the smelting of copper ores carrying low values in the precious metals. As a larger tonnage of copper ore was smelted, the silver-output shows an increase.

LEAD.

The total amount of lead produced in 1919 is estimated to have been 32,131,136 lb., valued at $1,658,121. This represents, as compared with the previous year, a decrease in quantity of 11,765,523 lb., and with the lower market price of lead a decrease in value of $1,269,986.

During the first half of 1919 the market for lead was in a dull and demoralized condition owing to conditions arising from the sudden stopping of the war. Large stocks of lead were on hand for war purposes when the Armistice was signed, and also all lead-producers were speeded up to a high capacity. When the abnormal war demand for lead ceased, the market price dropped and production was curtailed until the surplus stocks were consumed by normal demand. The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, which treats at its smelter and refinery at Trail nearly all the lead produced in Canada, was heavily stocked with lead when the year opened, and as a result had to refuse to take lead ore for some time from the mines.

During the year the lead market gradually adjusted itself to normal demands and now seems to be in a fairly healthy condition.

The average price of lead in January in New York was 5.442 cents a pound, and although fluctuating somewhat it was not until August that any material advance was made. Slight advances continued until the average for December was about 7 cents a pound. The average price for the year was 5.536 cents, as compared with 7.413 cents in 1918.

The following table shows the production of lead, according to districts, for the year 1918 and the estimated production for 1919:

	1918.	1919.
	Lb.	Lb.
Fort Steele	18,695,565	14,100,000
Sloean	14,577,379	12,129,296
Ainsworth	6,106,262	3,785,110
Windermere-Golden ..	2,659,210	1,592,000
Nelson	1,611,166	371,300
All others	252,079	152,930
Totals	43,899,661	32,131,136

From the above table it will be seen that the decrease in output was general in all districts, and shows that the different mines

COPPER MOUNTAIN
A Mining Town in the Yukon

throughout the Province were forced to curtail their outputs.

Fort Steele Division again leads all other districts. The Sullivan mine contributes nearly all of this production as a rule, but this year over 2,500,000 lb. came from the North Star.

In the Slovan District the heaviest producer in 1918 was the Queen Bess, followed by the Surprise, the Silversmith, and the Hewitt-Van Rai.

In the Ainsworth Division the largest producer was the Florence, with an output of about 2,000,000 lb., followed by the Spokane-Trinket, with approximately 1,000,000 lb. and about seventeen smaller shippers.

The lead production of Nelson Division comes mainly from the Emerald mine, and this mine produced very much less than in the previous year.

The production from Windermere Golden was chiefly from the Paradise mine, with a production of about 1,250,000 lb., and seven small shippers.

COPPER

The amount of copper estimated to have been produced in 1919 shows, as compared with the previous year, a decrease in quantity, and, owing to the lower market selling-price, a large decrease in value. The production is estimated at 45,981,046 lb., which is 15,199,708 lb. less than the 1918 output; the value for 1919 is $8,531,295, which, compared with $15,143,440 made in 1918, shows a decrease of $6,612,244.

The year 1919 commenced with practically no sales of copper in January; in February the average price according to the Engineering and Mining Journal, was 16,763 cents a pound. By August the price rose to 22,319 cents a pound, but to some extent the market was artificial, as the demand was very considerably less than the supply. From August to the end of the year the price declined again, and the average for December was about 18.5 cents a pound. In the last two weeks of the year the market appeared to have a healthier tone, and the price advanced slightly. The average price for the year was 18.77 cents a pound (December estimated), as compared with 21.63 cents in 1918.

The following table shows the production of copper, according to districts, in 1918 and the estimated production in 1919:

	1918. Lb.	1919. Lb.
Skeena	30,190,606	20,730,685
Coast (Southern) ..	18,475,013	20,219,724
Boundary-Yale	10,477,833	3,432,327
Trail Creek Division	1,654,356	1,584,980
All others	685,946	16,330
Totals	61,483,754	45,984,046

From the above table it will be seen that there was a decrease in output from every district except the Coast (Southern). The main producer in this district is the Britannia, and this property mined and milled a larger tonnage in 1919 than in any previous year. Considering the adverse market conditions, this increased production of the Britannia mine shows the satisfactory condition of the property.

Early in the year the Granby Company was forced to close down the low-grade mines at Phoenix and smelter at Grand Forks, resulting in a great decrease in the copper production of Boundary-Yale District.

The Granby Company also curtailed production at the mines and smelter at Ansox, with the result that the copper production was about two-thirds that of 1918.

The Marble Bay mine at Vananda was operated during the year, but a smaller production was made than in 1918.

The Rocher Desbois mine, in Omineca Division, was closed all year, with the result that practically no copper was produced in that district.

ZINC.

The quantity of zinc estimated to have been produced in 1919 amounted to 43,694,583 lb., which, compared with 41,772,916 lb. produced in 1918, shows an increase of 1,921,667 lb. This production is valued at $2,717,803, which shows a decrease, as compared with the 1918 value, of $2,899,049, due to the decreased market price of the metal

The zinc market was not as much affected as the copper and lead markets by the transition period from war demands to peace conditions, with the result that the price of the metal did not fluctuate greatly and production continued uninterruptedly.

In January the average price of zinc in New York was 7.272 cents a pound; by May it had fallen to 6.429 cents, but thereafter gradually rose until the end of the year, the average for December being about 8.5 cents a pound. The average price for zinc for the year 1919 was 7.317 cents a pound (December estimated), as compared with 8.159 cents for 1918.

It should be noted that the 1919 production of zinc is the highest, as to quantity, in the history of the Province, although owing to a lower market price the value of the zinc production is less than in each of the three preceding years.

The following table shows the production of zinc, according to districts, for 1918 and the estimated production for 1919:

	1918. Lb.	1919. Lb.
Fort Steele	26,704,806	32,200,000
Skeena	14,107,682	11,115,983
Omineca	313,112	273,000
Ainsworth	640,991	105,600
All others	6,325
Totals	41,772,916	43,694,583

From the above table it is seen that the only district showing increased zinc production in 1919 was Fort Steele. The output in this district is made by the Sullivan mine, and the increase was due to a larger tonnage being handled at the Consolidated Company's electrolytic zinc refinery at Trail, where the ore is treated.

In the Slocan District the heaviest shipper was again the Standard, with a production of nearly 5,000,000 lb., which, however, is 2,000,000 lb. less than in 1918. The next largest shipper was the Hewitt-Can Roi followed by the Surprise.

The estimate for Ainsworth is only about one-sixth of last year's production, but final figures may bring the output for this Division up considerably.

The Omineca production is mainly a silver-zinc concentrate from the Silver Standard mine at Hazelton.

OTHER MINERALS

Iron.—So far there has been no iron produced in British Columbia, but it has been strongly advocated in many quarters that the conditions are favorable for the establishment of an iron-smelting plant somewhere on the British Columbia coast. So far nothing definite has materialized, although there is apparently a prospect of such a plant being established.

As is well known, there is on the Coast, in the aggregate, an adequate supply of magnetite-iron ore, quite sufficiently free from impurities as to be within the "Bessemer limit" to supply ore for such a plant.

Important bodies of limonite ore have been discovered in the Chilcotin district, which were examined by Mr. Brewer, his notes on which are included in his report.

About 25 tons of magnetite was shipped by this Department from Texada island to Vancouver for an experiment in electric smelting by the Fleet process, from which process, however, no satisfactory results were obtained.

Platinum.—The well known fact of the wide occurrence of platinum throughout the Province in connection with our placer-gold deposits gives reasonable hope that such may be found in payable quantities and justifies further investigations.

As far as reports received indicate, the only output in 1919 was about $1,500 worth from the Similkameen District, in which district the Dominion Government was in 1918 making a search for the metal for war purposes, but this work has now ceased.

Molybdenite.—Since the Armistice the market is dormant, like other metal prices, but nominal quotations vary from 75 cents to $1 a pound. So far no advice of any shipment in 1919 has been received.

Chromite.—In 1918 about 800 tons of chromite ore, carrying from 30 to 45 per cent. chromic oxide, was shipped from the Mastodon claim, Grand Forks Division; and a deposit on Scotty creek, near Clinton, was opened up, but no shipments were made.

With the end of the war the market for chromite temporarily collapsed, as large stocks were available, with no purchasers in sight. It is believed that no ore was shipped in 1919.

Manganese.—Nearly 600 tons of manganese ore, running over 50 per cent. manganese and less than 20 per cent. silica, was shipped from the Hill Sixty property on Cowichan lake before the roads became impassable through winter rains. The company is now arranging for the installation of an aerial tramway, which should prevent, in the future, interruption to sustained shipments.

About 100 tons of high-grade manganese ore was also shipped from the Curle Manganese group near Kaslo. Both shipments went to the Bilrowe Alloys Company, of Tacoma.

Non-metallic Minerals.—About 1,600 tons of fluorspar was shipped from the Rock Candy group, in the Grand Forks Division. This property is owned by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company and is being equipped to make steady shipments in the future. The mineral is shipped to the Trail smelter and is used for making hydro-fluoric acid, which is used in the lead-refinery, and to other points in Canada and to the United States.

Shipments of magnesium sulphate (Epson salt) were made from Spotted Lake, Osoyoos Division, but figures have not been obtained. Seven hundred and fifty tons of magnesium sulphate was shipped from deposits of this material near Clinton.

Deposits of hydromagnesite in the Clinton Division, which are reported to be large and of great purity, have attracted considerable attention during the past year. No shipments have been recorded.

A production of arsenic valued at $17,000 was made by the Nickel Plate mine in 1919.

STRUCTURAL MATERIALS, ETC.

The output during 1919 of all structural materials, such as cement, lime, building-stone, sand and gravel, brick, and other clay products, will probably show a slight decrease from that of previous years.

The output for 1919 is estimated at $800,000, as against $940,891 in the preceding year.

Since 1912, when a production amounting to $3,443,722 was recorded, the output of building materials has steadily declined, due to the cessation of the building trade, brought about by the continued financial depression, and the war. It is probable that the figures have now reached a minimum.

CHEAM SUMMIT

and that an output amounting to about $1,000,000 represents the steady yearly demand for these materials for use in repairs, renewals, and various small demands, without any new construction-work. It may be expected, therefore, that the production will remain at about this figures until a period of active construction-work again commences in the Province.

Portland cement is at present the most important item in the production of building materials, amounting this year, it is estimated, to less than $300,000.

The outputs of building-stone, crushed rock, sand and gravel, and red brick have fallen to very low figures. A considerable quantity of firebrick and similiar material is made, principally by the large plant of the Clayburn Company.

COAL AND COKE

It is estimated that the gross production of coal was 2,504,123 long tons, of which 147,205 tons was made into coke, leaving the net production at 2,357,218 tons. These figures show a decrease, as compared with 1918, of 74,301 tons gross and an increase of 51,973 tons net. The quantity of coke made was about 98,598 tons, which is a decrease of about 90,369 tons as compared with 1918. For purposes of comparison the following table is shown:

	Est. 1919.	1918.	1917.	1916.	1915.	1914.
Coal, gross,	2,504,123	2,429,824	2,498,715	2,485,580	1,972,580	2,067,418
Less made into coke	147,205	276,179	248,740	410,487	361,451	555,461
Coal, net	2,357,218	2,153,645	2,249,975	2,075,093	1,611,129	1,511,957
Coke made	98,598	388,967	489,997	267,725	245,871	2,125,727

In these figures for 1919 the output for the month of December has had to be estimated, consequently the final figures may vary from them slightly.

Summarizing the Provincial production of coal, the following table shows the estimated output for 1919:

	Tons of 2,240 Lb.
From Vancouver Island collieries	1,690,724
From Nicola and Similkameen collieries	152,731
From Crowsnest District collieries	659,408
From Telkwa collieries	1,560
Total quantity coal mined	2,504,423
Less made into coke	147,205
Net quantity of coal produced ..	2,357,218

In addition to the above net production of coal, there was made the coke production shown in the following table:

Tons, of 2,240
Lb.

From Vancouver Island collieries...	43,517
From Nicola and Similkameen collieries	Nil.
From Crowsnest District collieries..	55,081
Total	98,598

As will be seen by the above figures, the net coal production was about 98,598 tons (2,240 lb.) more than it was in 1918.

Coke.—The production of coke in 1919 was about 98,598 tons (2,240 lb.), which is 90,369 tons less than the preceding year, a decrease of about 48 per cent.

The coal-mines of the Province have had a fairly good year. Interruptions to production were as follows: A strike at Fernie closed the mines during June, July, and August, but work was started again the beginning of September. During the months of May, June and July the mines on Vancouver island worked slack time, losing probably 160,000 tons that might have been produced.

The Fisheries of British Columbia.

Commissioner of Fisheries Hon. Wm. Sloan

Asst. to the Commissioner . . . John P. Batecock

Value of Canadian Fisheries and Standing of Provinces.

The value of the fishery products of Canada for the year ending December 31st, 1917, totalled $52,312,044, as against $39,208,378 for the preceding year, notwithstanding that the latter was considerably greater than in any preceding year.

During the year 1917 British Columbia contributed fishery products of a total value of $21,518,595, or 41 per cent. of the total for the Dominion.

As in recent years, British Columbia again leads all the Provinces of Canada in the value of her fishery products. Her output for the year exceeded in value those of Nova Scotia by $7,050,276, and exceeded that of all the other Provinces combined by $11,156,944.

The following statement gives in their order of rank the value of the fishery products of the Provinces for the year ending December 31st, 1917:

British Columbia	$21,518,595 00
Nova Scotia	14,468,319 00
New Brunswick	6,143,088 00
Quebec	3,414,378 00
Ontario	2,866,419 00
Prince Edward Island	1,786,310 00
Manitoba	1,543,288 00
Saskatchewan	320,298 00
Alberta	184,009 00
Yukon	67,490 00
Total	$52,312,044 00

The Species and Value of Fish Caught in British Columbia.

The total value of each species of fish taken in British Columbia for year ending December 31st, 1917, is given in the following statement:

Salmon	$16,828,783 00
Black cod	879,494 00
Hake and husk	1,000 00
Herring	1,192,654 00

Shad	675 00
Halibut	1,721,012 00
Soles	78,649 00
Flounders	23,601 00
Skate	10,117 00
Smelts	14,270 00
Oolachans	10,991 00
Brill	51,420 00
Octopus	1,656 00
Rock-cod	8,688 00
Pilehards	11,810 00
Whiting	2,725 00
Grayfish	4,480 00
Oysters	32,202 00
Clams and quahaugs	84,000 00
Dulse, crabs, and cockles	48,424 00
Trout	10,350 00
Sturgeon	9,790 00
Perch	4,920 00
Mixed fish	13,184 00
Salmon-roe	7,820 00
Fur-seal skins	6,540 00
Bone-meal	10,185 00
Fertilizer	70,164 00
Whale-oil	342,247 00
Fish-oil	23,892 00
Witches	50 00
Gill-bone	12,802 00
Total	$21,518,595 00

The total value for the year shows an increase over the previous year of $6,881,249; salmon products were increased by $6,285,178, due both to an increase in size of pack and its value. The halibut catch was less, and, notwithstanding an increase in price, shows a decrease from the previous year of $905,658. The herring catch is valued at $1,192,654, a slight gain over the previous year, and whale products show a gain of $94,220, with a total value of $446,486.

The Number of Persons Engaged and Value of Fishery Plants and Apparatus in British Columbia in 1918.

The following statement gives the number and the value of the plants, vessels, boats, and apparatus used in the fisheries of the Province in 1918, and the number of persons engaged:

	Value.
Vessels, tugs and carrying smacks—514	$2,500,801 00

Approximate total Expenditure out of Revenue...$1,447,188 $67,400 $1,514,588

ROADS AND TRAILS

The expenditure for roads and trails represents the ordinary repairs to roads and trails generally. It also represents the improvements of the surface of existing roads and the reconstruction on improved grades and the alignment of portions of existing roads.

BRIDGES

Most of the expenditures on bridges was for renewing or repairing existing structures. Much more work of this nature was undertaken by contract in 1919 than in former years. The following is a list of the bridges for which contracts were given to be repaired or constructed.

On the Salmon River at Cache Crossing in the Comox District; Trable River near Fanny Bay, in the Comox District; Sturgeon Slough at Pitt Meadows in the Dewdney District; South Thompson at Pritchard; Blueberry River in the Columbia District; Kitsaukaus Creek in the Alberni District; Cragflower in the Esquimalt District; North Okanagan at Enderby; Kicking Horse River at Golden, in the Columbia District.

Of these the bridge over the South Thompson River at Pritchard, and the bridge over the Blueberry River near Golden are entirely new structures.

FERRIES

In addition to the ordinary repairs and maintenance of some fifty ferries, extensive alterations were made to the ferry plying between Ladner and Woodward. A new ferry was built to be used at Mission to meet the demands of the increased traffic on the Fraser River there. The ferry that was at Mission is to be transferred to the Agassiz-Rosedale run.

WHARVES

The expenditure on wharves was small compared with previous years. With the exception of the maintenance of the Prince Rupert Wharf—a more modern structure which is revenue producing—the expenditure on wharves was limited to absolutely necessary repairs on the few remaining wharves under the jurisdiction of the Provincial Government. The Federal Government has now assumed control of the Tidal and Inland Wharves and last year took over from this Province the more important wharves formerly maintained by the Provincial Public Works Department. Such wharves include most of the inland wharves on the Okanagan Lakes. It is the intention of the Provincial Department of Public Works to abandon or close up to public use any of the wharves not taken over by the Federal Government.

In addition to the work previously referred to, the Public Works Department carried out considerable important projects under the British Columbia Loan Act, 1919. From this special fund of $1,500,000 many highway improvements of a more or less permanent nature were undertaken. Approximately $616,000 has been expended to date for 66 miles of roads improved and 15 miles of new roads opened up.

In 1920-21 as in recent years the programme of the Department of Public Works will be confined chiefly to the maintenance of existing roads and trails.

The greater portion of the 14,000 miles of highways will be either generally repaired and kept passable for ordinary vehicular traffic, or partly reconstructed on improved alignment and grades. Many of the more travelled roads leading to the centres of population or industry will be materially improved with surfaces of gravel or crushed rock, which in some cases will be treated with oil.

In addition to the wagon roads approximately 8,000 miles of trails, as feeders to the Highways from mines, lumber mills, etc., will require to be kept open and in fairly passable condition. In this connection it should be stated that financial assistance is given by the Provincial Department of Mines for the construction of many of the purely mining roads and trails, the cost of which is usually borne by the Provincial Department of Mines and the mine owners on a fifty-fifty basis. In the fiscal year 1919-1920 $98,112 was provided by the Department of Mines for such expenditure and it is likely that at least a similar amount will be available during the fiscal year 1920-1921. All such work is, however, undertaken either by the Provincial Day Labour forces, or by contract under the supervision of the Public Works Department.

As the Department has been confronted with the maintenance of such a large mileage of roads, it has not been financially possible for some years to appropriate anything like adequate amounts for the opening up of new roads. Hence it has been imperative to confine expenditures on new construction to absolutely necessary work. In 1920 therefore, any new roads built will be for the accommodation of settlers not presently provided. Particularly in connection with the various provincial soldier settlement schemes the Department propose providing suitable access roads.

Questions, Anticipated.

1. British Columbia does not offer reduced fares to settlers and effects—see the nearest passenger agent or traffic manager of any transportation company.

2. Land may be obtained free in British Columbia—see "Pre-emptions."

3. Partial residence is admissible and provision is made for leave of absence—see "Pre-emptions."

4. One who has homesteaded in another Province may pre-empt Crown land in British Columbia.

5. You may purchase land from the Government—see "Purchase Lands"; you may also lease land from the Government—see "Lease Lands."

6. Improved lands may be bought from private owners (inquire of Secretaries of Boards of Trade) and from the Government—see "Land Settlement."

7. No, it is not advisable to buy land through an agent without personal inspection.

8. The capital you require for a start in British Columbia depends entirely on your aspirations and skill. One thousand dollars would start a small poultry-farm, but not less than $1,500 would be safe in any kind of mixed farming or fruit-growing.

9. The Government extends financial aid to settlers—see "Land Settlement."

10. Yes, all necessary implements may be purchased from dealers in British Columbia—see "Settlers."

11. School facilities and social conditions are good—see "Education" and "Sociology."

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Dominion Water Power Branch

British Columbia Hydroelectric Survey

The British Columbia Hydroelectric Survey is a part of the Water Power Branch, Department of the Interior, Ottawa. The work of the survey which is of special interest to the public is the study of discharge of the more important streams in the Province. These stream flow records are obtained for the following principal reasons: irrigation and reclamation purposes and municipal water supply and the development of hydroelectric energy. Information is readily supplied to interested parties on application to 214 Hastings St. East, Vancouver.

THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATORY.

Gonzales Heights, Victoria.

F. Napier Denison, Director.

This institution was erected in 1914, situated on Gonzales Heights, and commands one of the finest views in the world. It is the central office in British Columbia of the Dominion Meteorological Service, where daily weather forecasts are issued, weather observations are received from numerous parts of the Province, and information bearing on the climate of B.C. is furnished upon application.

The true time derived from astronomical observations is given daily, locally by dropping a time ball, and generally by telegraph and wireless signals.

Seismographs installed here record earthquakes occurring in numerous parts of the world, and special researches are carried on relating to the probable causes of quakes and colliery gas explosions.

Visitors' hours are from 3 to 5 p.m.

As a great deal of dredging work was suspended owing to war conditions, and as the resumption of the work is a matter coming within the reconstructive policy of the Government, it would be impossible at the present time to give an outline as to the future programme contemplated.

This Branch, however, covers the entire Coast district of B.C., and the prominent works which have been undertaken are extensive harbour improvements in Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo and other harbours, the maintaining of a ship channel in the Fraser River, and considerable dredging was done to prepare shipbuilding sites.

TRADE AND COMMERCE

Electricity and Gas Inspection

The Electricity and Gas Inspection Acts require all electricity and gas meters to be tested once every five years and at any other time on request of consumer, for which a nominal fee is charged.

The voltage and frequency of the electric supply is required to be kept within certain limits.

The heating value of manufactured gas must conform to required standard and gas must be free from impurity.

The staff is continually testing to see that the above requirements are fulfilled.

This branch has an electrical standardizing laboratory at Vancouver, where all Departmental instruments are periodically calibrated. This laboratory will also accept electrical instruments for calibrating from any individual or corporation outside of the Department, charging a fee for such testing or calibration.

Along the Lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway

NATURE has thrown up the Canadian Rockies on so vast a scale that the human mind can with difficulty grasp their greatness, except by some comparison. The transcontinental trains take twenty-four hours to pass from Cochrane, at the entrance to the Rockies, to Mission, some forty miles east of Vancouver. The simplest parallel is that of the Swiss Alps, which throw their giant barrier between Italy and France. Two of the best known railway routes across the Swiss Alps are the St. Gothard and the Simplon, and in each case only five hours (in peace times) is taken by the express trains—five hours on the St. Gothard route from Lucerne to Como; five hours on the Simplon route from Lausanne to Arona. When, therefore, Edward Whymper, the hero of the Matterhorn, described the Canadian Pacific Rockies as fifty Switzerlands thrown into one, this certainly was no exaggeration. Snowy peaks, glaciers, rugged precipices, waterfalls, foaming torrents, canyons, lakes like vast sapphires and amethysts set in the pine-clad mountains—these have been flung together in unparalleled profusion on a scale which Europe has never known.

As the train glides westward up the long transverse valleys—old grooves down which the spent glaciers came from the higher mountains—the prospect grows more awe-inspiring with every mile, till the train leaves the foothills for the real Rockies—peaks that touch heaven for coldness.

The colouring is intense in the foregrounds; filled with soft suggestion, with unguessed witchery of semi-tonal shade, as the prospect dips and fades away from you. The skies are raw blue, the snow on the summits is whiter than sea-foam, whiter than summer clouds, white with a glistening untouched whiteness that cannot be named.

The still valleys are full of jade pine trees that fade into amethyst and pearl distances. The spray of a 400-foot cataract is like spun glass. The huge bulk of a tireless and age-old glacier is milky green. The rocks are of every shade and subtle blending that the palette of the First Artist could produce. And the perspective effects are like nothing that can be caught with the camera, or even splashed on canvas.

Here in this wonder world, this bit of the raw glacial era let down into neat and finished North America, the Canadian Government has preserved four National Parks which dwarf into insignificance any other parcs in the world. There is Rocky Mountain Park, with headquarters at Banff; there is Yoho Park, reached from Field and Emerald Lake; there is Glacier Park, on the slopes of the Selkirk Mountains, farther west; the Revelstoke Park, overlooking the Columbia Valley. Altogether there are nearly 170 miles of the most wonderful carriage roads in the world; there are pony trails innumerable where you can see, between straight pine trunks, blue valleys that yawn to mid-most depths; and there are automobile roads in being or under construction, such as the Highway of the Great Divide, from Banff, over Vermillion Pass by way of the Sinclair Canyon to the Windermere District of the Columbia Valley, down which it goes through the deep forest to the Crow's Nest Pass.

There are few achievements in history to parallel the laying of the Canadian Pacific steel across untouched wilderness and prairie to Calgary (which appeared like the magician's pillar when the road tapped the plain), and from Calgary to the Coast over the Kicking Horse and through the Connaught Tunnel.

The track was laid despite unthinkable engineering difficulties; and has undergone one improvement after another ever since.

Swiss Route, near Field

In the old days the Royal train containing the present King of England as a passenger was hauled from Field to Hector by five huge locomotives. To-day that old 4.5 grade is a carriage drive, one in the fairy spider-web of sight-seeing tours that radiate from Field. The main line now traverses the valley of the Kicking Horse River between these two stations with an increased length of 4.1 miles and a maximum grade of 2.2 per cent.

Two of the tunnels were engineered in spiral form. The first goes 3,200 feet into Cathedral Mountain and out again, issuing 54 feet higher up than it entered. The second, under Mount Ogden, contains 2,910 feet of curving excavation and secures a rise of 45 feet. The sight-seer can therefore witness the strange phenomenon of a railroad traversing the valley by three lines at different elevations, crossing and recrossing the river by four bridges. Two engines on the easy grade thus attained can do the same work that used to call for four.

Until December, 1916, the railway climbed over the top of Rogers Pass through a gorge, subject in winter to heavy snowslides, against which the track was protected by four miles of snowsheds. These are now evaded by the double-track Connaught Tunnel, the longest in North America, which pierces its way through Mount Macdonald. From portal to portal this tunnel measures exactly five miles in length, but so straight is the line that the exits are never out of sight.

So much for what the traveller sees en route. The stopping places are even more unique than the main-line sights.

Banff, Lake Louise, Field, Emerald Lake, Glacier, Siemous, these have their hotels whose windows open on fairyland, where music helps to pass the evening after a glorious day. Banff has an excellent golf course near the hotel. Fishing, hunting, climbing, riding, driving, exploring, Alpine flower hunting, wonder-photo taking—these are the "frill" doings in the Rockies. The biggest and most solid pleasure is just living—living where the air has never been contaminated with soot, where you can go from summer to snow any time you want to, where you don't need any alarm clock to get you up, any cordial to put you to sleep, any dinner bell to tell you when it's time to eat.

The dining room of the Banff Hotel seats 600 guests at a time, and the cuisine is up to Canadian Pacific standard—to say which is to say all. The hot springs provide for ideal swimming even on the coolest day, the zoo is perennially interesting, the boating and fishing will live in the memory of everyone who tries them. The Chateau Lake Louise that smiles at you from the dinner menu before you get to it, is no less enchanting when you arrive, and you arrive hungry.

Whatever the visitor hits or misses, he must arrange to stay over at Field. Never were there such carriage drives, such pony trails, such two and three day trips into the impenetrable silences. The Mount Stephen House carries a full force of guides and horses, and the chalet at Emerald Lake is always ready with a welcome.

Nothing could be a more unique experience than to drive out to Emerald Lake and then take the two day ride via Yoho Pass and thence the high line trail to Twin Falls. There is boating and fishing at the cosy little chalet on the lake which lies, as green as English grass, in its setting of sombre hills. When the trail bends north toward the Falls, you climb into another world. Across on a sky-high meadow, mountain goats browse on the close grass that is the sole form of verdure at that altitude. You pass over the torn and chiselled path of a primeval glacier, like a vast, dry torrent bed. A marmot whistles eerily, and perhaps you catch a sight of his rock-grey head against the door of his house. Now and then a porcupine scuttles quillfully ahead of you. Strange birds flare across the snow-silences, as sudden as a spoken word.

The Twin Falls themselves are two huge roaring curtains of spray, their feet hidden in perpetual mist that the sunshine turns into rainbow dust.

The trail bends homeward here. You pass solemn little emerald lakes in the nests of old cliff glaciers; you reach Laughing Falls in eight miles; and later sight the never-to-be-forgotten silver thread of Takakkaw, where there is an inviting camp, planted in the woodsy mist of cedars and wild blueberry bushes.

The Crow's Nest Route of the Canadian Pacific is a postscript, crossing the Rockies farther south than the main line. But many folks think that it lives up to postscript traditions by carrying some of the most important information. The visitor who would fully and faithfully see Rockyland should go by way of Banff, Lake Louise, Field and Glacier on the main line, then dip southward via Revelstoke and the Arrow lakes to the Kootenays, or by the Okanagan Valley or the new Kettle Valley Railway to Southern British Columbia. There are wonderfully beautiful waters and mountains all the way.

Wolverine

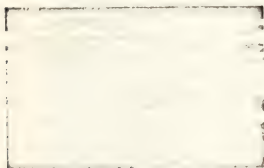

Interior Lake Fishing

While hunting is forbidden within the National Parks in the Canadian Pacific Rockies, there is magnificent sport to be had outside the Park limits, and the Canadian Pacific Railway Hotels are good outfitting points for some of the best hunting grounds. British Columbia is the last home of the grizzly, that monarch of the bear family. He is to be found in the East Kootenay and at Lillooet, and in some parts of Okanagan, the best time to hunt being May.

The Rocky Mountain goat, whose uncanny beard gives him almost a human appearance, has his home among the peaks of the Canadian Pacific Rockies. He is a brave and fearless fighter, and is more than a match for any dog that dares to attack him. His sharp and needle-like horns and strong, pointed hoofs are excellent weapons of defence against his enemies. He is the most daring of all mountain climbers, fearless, sure-footed, and delights in scaling great heights and taking perilous leaps across chasms. His coat is white, soft and fluffy, and the color has the effect of magnifying his size, which is usually about thirty-five to forty inches at the shoulder. When full grown he weighs from 200 to 250 pounds. He has practically no enemies save men and eagles. When danger threatens he climbs up or down the steepest precipice he can find, and there is no wild creature without wings that can follow him.

The Bighorn or Rocky Mountain sheep is to-day considered the most valued prize obtainable by the sportsman. Its home is among the fastnesses of the Canadian Pacific Rockies. This animal is of a suspicious nature, but is sure-footed and selfreliant in its mountain home and will escape over rocks which the hunter finds impossible to traverse. Its flesh is pronounced by epicures to be the most delicious of the world's game and its massive wide-spread ing horns make a beautiful ornament. Of all Canadian game the Bighorn is most wary and difficult to bag. His vigilance is admirable and once he has regained the higher ground, after feeding during the early morning, only the combination of luck and skill will secure a successful shot.

The best country for hunting the common Bighorn is that portion of the Lillooet District roughly described as being north and south of the bridge at Chilcoten River and east and west of the Fraser River, at Chilco Lake. The town of Lillooet is reached by stage from Lytton, Clinton or Ashcroft. Guides can be picked up at Lillooet and Hanceville.

Sport on Vancouver Island

THE opportunities for shooting and fishing on Vancouver Island are unsurpassed. The fisherman may find sport all the year round, while the hunter has a wide range—from game birds to black bear. Good hotel accommodation is to be had close to shooting and fishing grounds, while camping sites are also plentiful.

THE GAME FISH OF THE ISLAND.

Trout fishing, including steelheads, which are classed as trout by the Provincial Government, can be had on Vancouver Island at all seasons of the year, these fish being found in practically all the streams and lakes. The most common variety is the out-throat trout. They are caught both with a fly and by trolling.

Steelheads have been variously classed by different authorities as salmon and trout. They attain to a large weight and give fine sport on a good-sized salmon fly expertly fished.

Freshwater black bass are not native to the Island, but have been introduced with success into several lakes.

Scientifically speaking, char is the correct term for some of the varieties of so-called trout, notably the Eastern Canadian brook trout. The Dolly Varden trout is typically a char in structure and habits. It attains to a large weight and gives very fine sport on spinning tackle or a salmon fly, being found chiefly at the outlets of the larger Island lakes.

The following sportsman's calendar gives the approximate hunting and fishing opportunities month by month throughout the year. There is a continuous close season on all game, open seasons being declared by Order-in-Council. The list below gives the usual open periods. Information regarding licenses and seasons should be always obtained beforehand from the Provincial Game Warden, a Deputy Warden or Government Agent. The fishing seasons set out below remain unchanged from year to year.

The Sportsman's Calendar

Jan.	For the Shooter: Ducks, Geese, Snipe. For the Fisherman: Grilse in salt water with a good chance for a spring salmon. Steelhead in non-tidal waters.
Feb.	For the Shooter: Ducks, Geese, Snipe. For the Fisherman: Grilse, Spring Salmon and Steelheads.
Mar.	For the Shooter: Geese (Brant and Canada Geese). For the Fisherman: Grilse and Spring Salmon. Trout, Steelheads. Trout fishing opens and Steelhead fishing closes. May game.
Apr.	For the shooter: Geese, Black Bear. For the Fisherman: Trout, Grilse, small run of Coho Salmon.
May	For the Shooter: Black Bear. For the Fisherman: Trout, Grilse, small run of Coho Salmon.
June	For the Fisherman: Trout, Black Bass, Grilse, small run of Coho Salmon (about month for sea trout).
July	For the Fisherman: Trout, Black Bear.
Aug.	For the Fisherman: Trout, Spring Salmon, Black Bass.

Sept.	For the Shooter: Grouse, Deer, Ducks, Geese, Snipe, Bear. For the Fisherman: Trout, Spring Salmon, Coho Salmon, Black Bass.
Oct.	For the Shooter: Grouse, Deer, Ducks, Geese, Snipe, Pheasants, Quail, Bear. For the Fisherman: Trout, Spring Salmon, Coho Salmon.
Nov.	For the Shooter: Grouse, Deer, Ducks, Geese, Snipe, Pheasants, Quail, Bear. For the Fisherman: Trout until November 15th, Cohoes, November 15th, Trout fishing closes and Steelhead fishing opens.
Dec.	For the Shooter: Grouse, Ducks, Geese, Snipe, Pheasants, Quail; Deer until December 15th. December 15th, dove-shooting ends, December 31st, Pheasant, Grouse and Quail shooting ends.

FEATHERED AND FURRED GAME OF THE ISLAND

The pheasants found on the Island are the Chinese or common ring-necked, often erroneously termed Mongolian. The law allows the killing of cock birds only.

Willow grouse is the popular name for the ruffed grouse, which is common throughout the country. The blue, sooty or pine grouse is a timber bird which is plentiful all over the Island.

Two kinds of quail have been introduced with success on Vancouver Island, the California valley quail and the mountain quail.

Brant are shot almost entirely over decoys and from shore blinds. The birds are excellent for the table. Low shore points and sandspits are best places for this sport. Canada geese are shot in large numbers up the east and west coasts of the Island. Live decoys are best, sheet iron profile decoys taking second place.

Snipe are found in the ditches in the fields during November and December and on the flats around the lakes and low-lying meadows.

Mallards, widgeon, pin-tail, bull-head, golden-eye, blue-bills and some teal make up the greater portion of the duck tribe found on the Island.

Blacktail Deer are numerous in season, and found in nearly all parts of the Island. Deer-hunting with dogs is illegal.

Black bear are found all over Vancouver Island. Some good sized specimens are shot every year, and while they are occasionally seen from the roadside, it requires good dogs and a guide acquainted with the country to get them, as a rule.

Wapiti (American Elk) are found in the interior of the Island, but at present are protected for a term of years.

Cougar, known variously as panther or mountain lion, are plentiful in many districts. To hunt them with success, it is necessary to employ guides who will procure suitable dogs. The Provincial Government, by putting on a bounty of $15 a head, classes them as vermin, as also wolves.

Wolves, both black and grey, are found in the northern and north-western districts of Vancouver Island, but are seldom seen by the casual hunter. Bounty, $15 a head.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and Steamships Serve Central British Columbia and Coast Districts

THE Grand Trunk Pacific Railway traverses the heart of Central British Columbia, serving the choicest tourist, agricultural, mining and industrial districts, including the fertile Bulkley and Nechaco Valley districts, reaching the coast at Prince Rupert. From a scenic point of view the grandest scenery of the Canadian Rocky Mountains is located on the Grand Trunk Pacific. In fact, from its entrance of the mountain country through the Yellowhead Pass, Jasper Park and Mount Robson Park, along the Bulkley and Skeena Rivers, it is a continuous panorama for unsurpassed mountain scenery. It is a tour of a thousand wonders. The steamship "Prince Rupert" and "Prince George," of the Grand Trunk Pacific Steamship Co. ply between Prince Rupert, Anyox and Stewart to the north, and Prince Rupert, Swanson Bay, Ocean Falls, Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle to the south. These steamships are the finest and fastest in the North Pacific Coast regular service, and are modern in every detail. The Grand Trunk Pacific Steamship Company also have a line of vessels operating between Queen Charlotte Islands, Prince Rupert and Vancouver.

The districts of Central British Columbia afford opportunities beyond number for farming, dairying, ranching, mining, lumbering, fishing, etc.

CENTRAL BRITISH COLUMBIA FEATURES THAT ATTRACT

Markets

One of the first and perhaps the most important question to be asked by a new settler in a new country is: What market conditions exist? The agricultural territory along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in Central British Columbia from the Alberta Boundary to Prince Rupert is extremely well provided with markets within reasonable distances of the point from which the produce is to be shipped. There are in operation directly served by the Grand Trunk Pacific, fifty-one lumber mills that are practically all located in districts that are not adapted to agriculture. These mills range in capacity from 20,000 to 125,000 feet of finished lumber per mill per day, besides their by-products, such as lath and shingles. It is estimated that these mills directly support between 25,000 and 30,000 people who look to the agriculturist of Central British Columbia to supply them with vegetables, cereals, meats, dairy products, in fact everything produced in a mixed farming district.

From Burns Lake to Prince Rupert is an extensive mining territory which will, in the near future, be supporting many thousands of people who will also look to the agriculturist for supplies. Several mines are now in operation and others are in various stages of development.

Prince Rupert depends entirely on outside markets for produce of all kinds, with the exception of fish. Prince Rupert is the centre of the Pacific Coast fishing industry, which will ultimately support a population of 15,000 people. An extensive ship-building plant is also in operation here.

Alaska and the Yukon, which are directly north of Prince Rupert, look to the interior of British Columbia for many farm products, particularly hay, which has been shipped to northern points for a number of years. This market demands a good quality of hay and pays good prices to the producer.

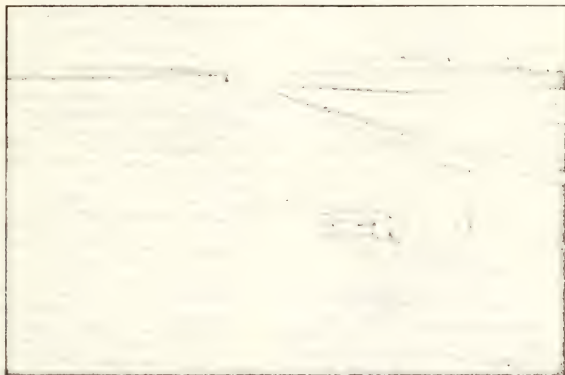

The climate is ideal. The warm Japan current, which flows north until it strikes the Alaskan coast, then flows south along the coast of Oregon, exercises a moderating influence on the climate, especially over the central interior of the province, through which the Grand Trunk Pacific passes. Whether it be the hardness and quality of the grain, or the flavor and excellence of the fruit, the central interior of British Columbia is peculiarly favored as the most fortunate of countries in the ideal conditions sought by the agriculturist, dairyman, fruit-grower, or the man who desires most for the least expenditure of labor capital. The long summer days of eighteen hours sunlight, the extreme fertility of the soil, and the temperate, well-balanced climate insure quick growth and maturing of crops.

No definite records have been kept of the annual precipitation in Central British Columbia along the route of the Grand Trunk Pacific, but over the enormous area of fertile lands there is no necessity for irrigation or even careful intense cultivation, as the precipitation is always sufficient to insure requisite growth and maturity. Where the rainfall is lightest in early summer, in the Nechako district, the dews are very vailing condition throughout the country, for none need be idle or penniless who is able and willing to work. The larger towns are well supplied with libraries and reading rooms, and the Provincial Government has a system of travelling libraries, by which the rural districts are furnished free with literature of the best description.

The cities and larger towns have well-equipped hospitals, supported by government grants and private subscriptions, and few of the smaller towns are without cotheavy, falling practically every night in density equal to light rain.

Summer frosts are not frequent, and owing to the warmth of the soil on the rare occasions when they have been experienced, apparently they do no crop damages. As the land comes under cultivation, naturally any danger from summer frosts should disappear.

Social Conditions Are Good

The population of this section of British Columbia, widely scattered and composed of many nationalities, is singularly peaceful and law-abiding. Life and property are well protected and individual rights respected. General prosperity is the prevalent condition throughout the country, for none need be idle or penniless who is able and willing to work. The larger towns are well supplied with libraries and reading rooms, and the Provincial Government has a system of travelling libraries, by which the rural districts are furnished free with literature of the best description.

The cities and larger towns have well-equipped hospitals, supported by government grants and private subscriptions, and few of the smaller towns are without cottage hospitals, and enjoy electric light, water works and telegraph and telephone connections. Daily newspapers are published in the larger places, and some mining camps have their semi-weeklies or weekly papers.
 The Industrial Department of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is in close touch with development of all kinds, and is in a position to give valuable information and assistance to those who are looking for an industrial or business opening. A letter addressed to that department (Winnipeg) outlining the needs of the enquirer will receive prompt attention and full particulars as to the most desirable locality will be given, as well as any further assistance needed.

Scope of Activities

A GLANCE at the coast map of British Columbia will give some impression of the vast territory covered by the twelve vessels of this company, but only personal experience can prove the intricate network of ports of call, whose very existence so far as stores and materials are concerned, lies in the capable hands directing operations from the Union Dock.

The direct route between Vancouver and Anyox measures about 600 miles, but the ceaseless passing up and down of the perfectly timed and handled vessels would make the total mileage for any one week nearly ten times this figure—veritably a stupendous distance, eating up coal and oil by the thousands of tons and gallons—transporting stores of every description, returning to port with full cargoes of all the varying products of sea, stream and forest, and carrying full complements of passengers on pleasure or business bent, whose every want is studied with the greatest consideration by all officials of the company.

From the great salmon canneries the huge packs are shipped each season, mainly by vessels of the Union Steamship Company, to Vancouver or Prince Rupert to be again despatched across the continent or by steamers to Europe or Australia; the sawmills yield of the freshly cut timbers, the mines their gold and copper, while dozens of other industries up the coast use their service for transportation of products.

Shipments of Stores

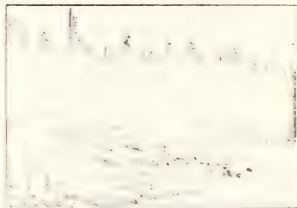

Across the Gulf of Georgia, traversing the Northern waters, sailing the great winding inlets which are such a feature of the coast of British Columbia, the freighters of the company pursue their steady course, carrying the necessary stores of food, tools, machinery, etc. There is never a camp opened within 500 miles of Vancouver but one of their vessels gives speedy notice of approach by her whistle one long, two short, one long again and is very welcome for her deliverance of the heterogeneous goods which are necessary for the providing of cannery or camp.

Some of the Runs

Assuming the reader has a map of the coast line by him, perhaps the best method of describing the scope of activities of the company is by mentioning some of the regular runs taken Winter and Summer by various vessels.

(a) Surf Inlet, Prince Rupert, Skeena and Naas River canneries. (The celebrated Tonopah-Belmont Mine, and some famous canneries).

(b) River Inlet, Ocean Falls, Bella Coola route. (A great country for the fisherman and sportsman, with many canneries of importance).

(c) Ocean Falls, Swanson Bay, Prince Rupert, Anyox route. (Pulp and paper settlements of magnitude, the terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and the Granby Consolidated Mines).

These three runs, taken at random from the schedule, are eloquent of distance covered, and, calling on settlements of such importance, give a good impression of the quantity of cargo regularly carried by vessels of the company.

For the Sportsman

The increasing number of sportsmen who visit the coast yearly for the purpose of fishing and shooting proves the magnificent catches to be made and bags filled on water or land.

Every lake and stream of this province (save those which have a snow or ice source) is teeming with trout. Every isle and inlet a prospective and probable shelter, on shore and inland, of duck, geese and deer, while throughout the various districts mentioned and others easy of access are to be found goat, cougar, with black, cinnamon and grizzly bear. In their seasons grouse, pheasants and plover are plentiful, and in the milder places, through infrequency of man's presence, yield excellent bags.

It may be suggested that every essential to camp outfitting can be obtained in Vancouver; and further, in view of the variety of sport in prospect, both shotgun and rifles of varying calibre, together with well assorted fishing tackle, should be carried.

From the fisherman's point of view, it is to be doubted if any districts on the continent can vie with this; the trout are of every variety, many running to sixteen pounds in weight, while at Campbell River, about nine hours from Vancouver, the mighty Tye Salmon of 70 pounds may be taken by the sporting method of trolling.

Noted Sport Centres

Rivers Inlet—25 hours from Vancouver. For fish, geese, grouse, deer and bear.

Kitimat—Forty hours from Vancouver. Trout, duck, geese and grouse (and in the near vicinity bear, deer and wolf).

Kimsquit—Thirty hours from Vancouver. Good fishing and splendid goat hunting.

Bella Coola—Thirty hours from Vancouver. Trout of many species, with Dolly Vardens up to sixteen pounds, on the fly. Duck, geese, goat, deer and bear, including the grizzly.

The stress and strain of modern existence makes occasional relaxation an essential, and no more effective form of this can be obtained than voyaging in a well-found and silently moving vessel along the shore line of this coast, where the waters are never rough, and glowing sunshine above, with vivid rich-toned waters beneath, bestow that perfect rest so essential to the tired city worker.

The ease which comes from care of the body is enhanced by the restfulness of mind induced through the sweeping panoramic vision unfolding.

"The majesty of Nature, laid to rest

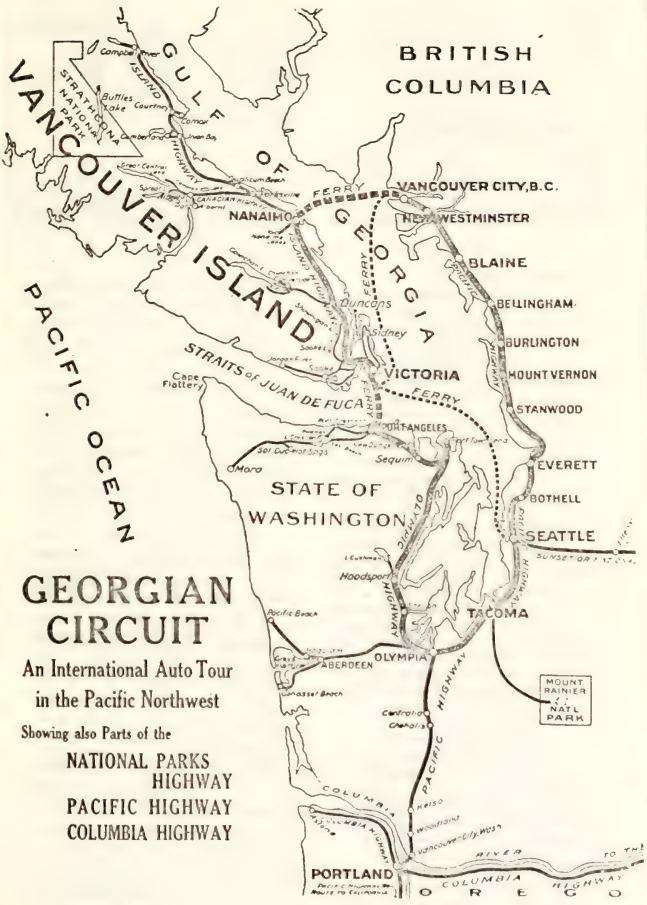

In an eternal, God-provided breast."

During the summer months, nothing can be more delightful than a tour of from two to six days along the wonders of the coast, and the Union Steamship Company have a justly deserved reputation for catering and service, which adds in no small measure to the happiness of the traveller.

Within a few hours' run from Vancouver are a number of beauty spots which are patronized every season by the rest lovers and artists. Here, on the golden shores stretching to the Gulf of Georgia, backed by the virgin woods, are summer homes of the many who love to spend their vacations amid the glorious surroundings of Nature, while enjoying the pleasant and profitable sports of bathing, fishing and boating.

Among some of the most famous and beautiful spots in this connection may be mentioned Selma Park, operated by the Union Steamship Company, where cottages and bungalows may be hired by the month. Also Sechelt and Half Moon Bay nearby which offer surroundings and good accommodation.

Another place which deservedly holds a high place in esteem of the summer dweller is Savary Island, with a foreshore of the wonderful sands, while Buccaneer Bay is considered so ideal for camping that the British Columbia Telephone Company have obtained a site and equipped it for the benefit of employees on their vacations.

MOTORING in British Columbia

Bowie Arch, Stanley Park, at entrance to Vancouver Harbor

B RITISH COLUMBIA as an entire province offers many attractions to the automobilist, but it may be taken for granted that once inside the boundary of the province, no matter from what part the tourist may come, Vancouver will be his Mecca. Victoria, New Westminster, Nanaimo, Kelowna, Penticton, Nelson, Cranbrook, the beautiful fruit country of the Okanagan, high and breezy Kamloops, Revelstoke, and many other places are sure to prove attractive, but Vancouver has a fascination and a beauty all its own. A city vocal with the hum of industry, a city of myriad lights, its streets full of animation and color, its grand park, which for scenic beauty has won world wide fame, its many centres of intellectual and artistic culture, make an irresistible appeal.

Vancouver is a city of a hundred thousand souls. Nature has poured out in its surroundings a lavish profusion of every beauty of earth, and sea, and sky. Mountains lift their snow white heads to the glowing heavens. All about the city are valleys, robed in richest green, and gemmed with lakes and glittering streams. The glory of the sunset, such a sunset as can only be seen in Vancouver, is almost matched by the splendid tints of the autumnal forests. At night the shimmering stars are mirrored deep in the shining sea.

Vancouver is a city amidst scenes full of beauty and radiant with color, and Vancouver is rising to an appreciation of the power of beauty, of fragrance, and form and color and light, the music of tumbling and falling waters.

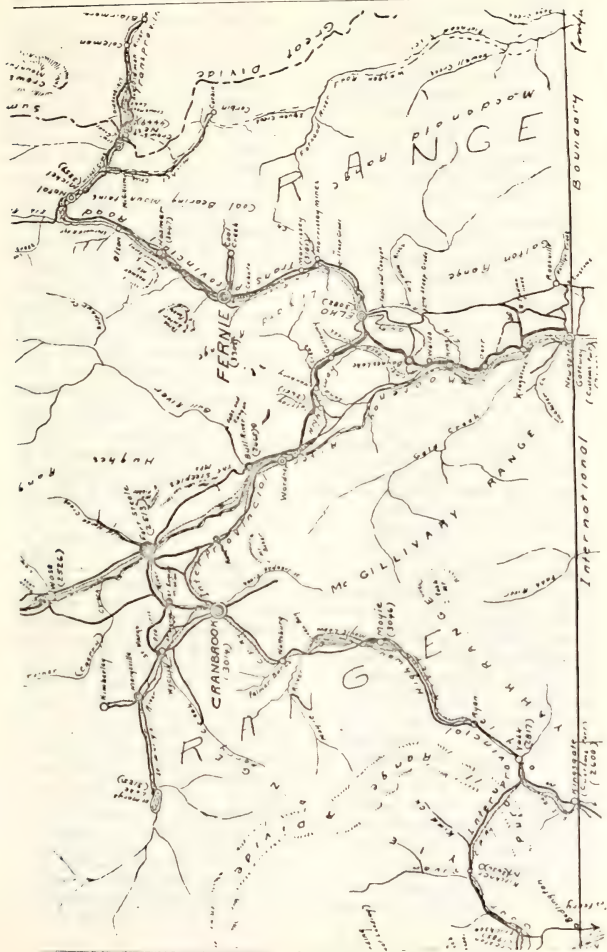

All around this city there are spots easily reached in the Fraser Valley, Huntingdon, Abbotsford, Chilliwack, Harrison Hot Springs, Steveston, Whytecliff, Horseshoe Bay, Buccaneer Bay, Scheldt, Cloverdale, Ladner, Mission, and many other beautiful spots, which tempt the tourist.

Vancouver gives you access to the mighty Fraser, navigable for one hundred and fifty miles, so that if, at any time the motorist wishes to change his holiday venue he can leave the road for the river. Should he be a mountaineer he has but to cross the ferry which conveys his car to North Vancouver, and within a little while he is among peaks and glaciers, table lands, crevasses and summits which drive such mountaineers as Whymper and Longstaffe wild with ecstasy and make them declare that British Columbia is a dozen Switzerlands rolled into one.

Howe Sound is dotted with islands. Nowhere is there a more beautiful trip than to Bowen Island, where there is excellent hotel accommodation. Where can be found a more enjoyable trip than that to the Wagswan Inn, Indian River? Into the short voyage there are crowded experiences such as a traveller could hardly hope to have in several days of travel. Mountains disclose with precipitation into the sky, while some seem ascending by gentle slopes inviting a walk more than a climb. So lovely, so familiar, are these mountains that they are called by pet names suggested by their configuration. "The Lions," no misnomer, for the summits of two glorious mountains are just like lions couchant guarding the portals of the city. Millions of post-cards of the Vancouver Lions have found their way to all corners of the earth. Soldiers the trenches viewed the pictures with the same affectionate veneration as the Japanese feel for Fujiyama, the sacred mountain.

The mountain range of Vancouver has also a "Sleeping Beauty," a glorious mountain top, which reposing in the evening sunlight seems to rest and breathe and one almost expects to see it wake up to the joy of life. Gleaming glaciers reflect brilliant sunshine in every line of purple, yellow, mauve, blue and gold. Vancouver is such a city as would have tempted Turner to fresh glories. It is a city which seems to breathe the spirit of freedom and liberty, and many men returning to this city after incarceration in a German prison have breathed the exultation of William Tell, though he may not have voiced his feelings in the identical words which Sheridan Knowles put into the mouth of the beauty loving and liberty loving patriot.

The charm of Vancouver is its happy Bohemian unconventional spirit. English Bay has not only the sylvan beauty, but the primitive freedom of an ancient Eden. Should there be an invalid in delicate health she can find along the fringe of Stanley Park sheltered and wooded nooks and corners with the silver sand at her feet, and the blue waters within her view, where she may bathe in sunshine, and where the winds of heaven will not visit her cheek too roughly.

Vancouver is a city for the young and for the old. A city for the sturdy and athletic man and woman. It is a paradise for sportsmen, for in their proper seasons there are fishing, shooting and big game hunting within reach of all. The good shot may soon fill his bag with grouse, pheasant, duck or mallard. There is sea fishing for those who like the more robust forms of exercise for rod or line, while many a mountain stream will test the skill of the most expert fly fisherman. There are golf links within easy reach of the heart of the city. Baseball grounds so excellent that the most famous teams are always delighted to play in Vancouver. Cricket and bowling are pastimes well maintained, nor does the city lack attention to the aesthetic side of life, for there are intellectual and artistic associations, clubs, and coteries such as cities many times the size and age of Vancouver might well be proud to boast.

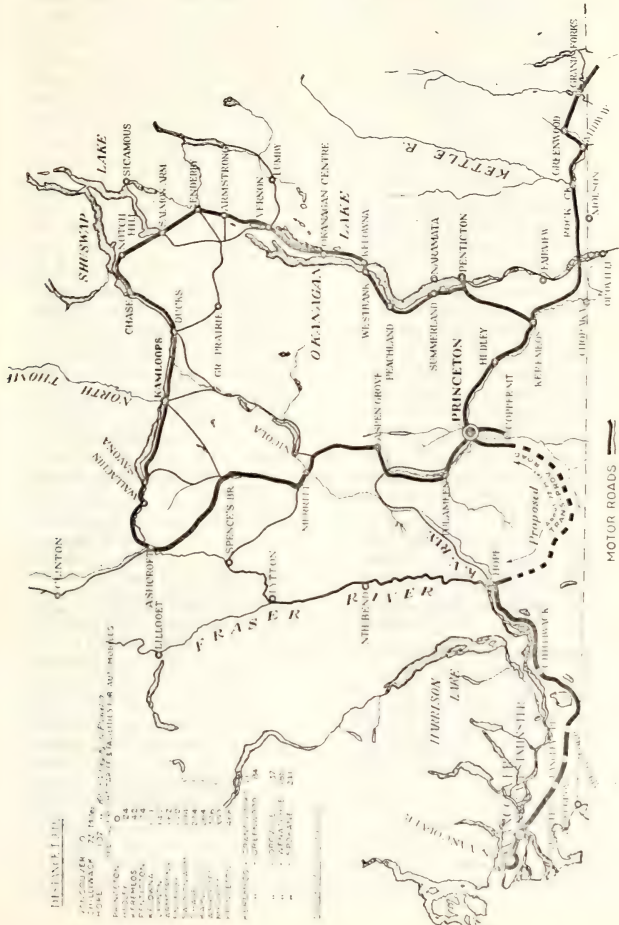

"The play is the thing," says Hamlet, speaking of dramatic matters, and to parody the Prince of Denmark, the motorist will say with emphasis, "The road is the thing" which counts when you are undertaking a trip for health or pleasure. You may have a good car, the weather may be all that you could desire, and the scenery enchanting. But if the road is bad, all the keen edge will be taken off your enjoyment, and the praises you would be bestowing on the landscape will give way to irreverent cuss words.

British Columbia has splendid highways which have been constructed from time to time under different administrations, the work being done, it must be admitted, spasmodically, but on the whole well done, and the sum total is an aggregate of which such a young country may well be proud.

You might tour over the whole American continent for twelve months and at the end of that time if you came to take stock of what you had seen, you would recall the International Georgian Circuit with the greatest amount of pleasure. Into a week's tour in this region, which lies between the southwest portion of the Canadian province and the northwest corner of the United States, you would have found every varying scenery, delightful prospects of sea and sky, and that British Columbia was of natural beauty "all compact."

Let us assume for a moment that the tourist reaches us from Seattle. He will have seen the delightful country of Tacoma, and Olympia and enjoyed the scenic drive in the Olympic Peninsula. Having been ferried across the strait he will reach Victoria B.C., and there will make the acquaintance of the fine highways which have with immense labor and at immense cost been hewn out of the primitive forest by men, who had a vision of what British Columbian cities would be, and who saw in the "mind's eye" the roads necessary for linking the companionable population together.

Vancouver Island, Vancouver City, New Westminster, Nanaimo, have all a number of delightfully pleasant drives and there are rival claims as to which are the most pleasant. Each city has its admirers and its champions, and there is a friendly rivalry, a healthy emulation, which leads to the achievement of good results.

Candor compels us to state that on British Columbia the hand of war has been laid heavily. Much "man power" has been diverted from useful pursuits to the harmful, but alas! necessary, destructive work of fighting in Flanders. Millions of dollars which would have made and maintained necessary roads in British Columbia have been necessarily spent in England, France and Belgium. But though during the last four years construction work has been far less than it should have been, yet the great main arteries of the Province have been kept in fairly good condition, and roads have not been allowed to fall into such neglect that to put them into good shape will be very expensive. In matters physical, financial, and one might add moral, British Columbia has a reputation for speedy recuperation, and unless there are unforeseen circumstances, of which we have at present no hint, the Province will soon become not only her former self, but have an added charm, strength and beauty. One might be tempted to go into details of the attractions which British Columbia offers to the tourist, but reasons of space, not want of matter, tempt us to summarize.

The Canadian highways, the neighborhoods of Cameron Lake, and Alberni, the lovely country round Cowichan Lake, the beauty of Esquimalt Harbor and the Malahat Mountains, all these delightful places have been often described in terms of the warmest admiration.

Have you a turn in your mind towards things scientific you will naturally take an interest in Observatory Hill, upon which is the second largest telescope in the world. Are you a lover of the sea, you will lie to Beacon Hill, Victoria, and admire the innumerable beautiful bays which lie within your view, especially Cadboro Bay, where the Royal Victoria Yacht Club has its home.

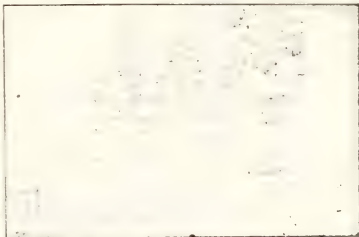

Let us return to Vancouver City and its surrounding beauty spots, such as "Beautiful Burnaby" with its lovely lake, on the edges of which several artists have built their homes. Mission and Harrison Hot Springs, the Carlsbad of Canada, will not be neglected by the motorist, and nearer to Vancouver City is the Capilano Canyon famed for its romantic beauty and the excellent accommodation to be found in its vicinity.

Out of Vancouver City runs the Marine Drive and at Point Grey the traveller will certainly pause to admire the beautiful landscapes of a country so salubrious that it has been chosen as the site for the University of British Columbia, and the choice has been universally commended.

Further afield is the Okanagan, Kamloops and Lillooet, and anybody with a feeling for the historic will not forget Cariboo, for along the Cariboo trail came the pioneers of the Great West. All over the great areas we have named there are thriving little communities each having its own individuality, its special fascinating attractions. Rosland, Trail, Nelson, Revelstoke, will certainly be visited by those who have the time, and much information will be gleaned from those who have seen the district grow from small beginnings. So healthy is the climate that Time, though he may write his wrinkles on the brow of the rugged pioneer, yet attacks slowly the natural force of vigorous constitutions and the traveller will be surprised to find how many old forty-niners linger to tell of bygone days, and to prophesy great things for the British Columbia of the future.

Motorists visiting Vancouver can obtain road maps and touring information from the Vancouver Automobile Club, headquarters Hotel Vancouver, the Island Touring Bureau, Victoria, and any automobile club in the Province.

Copyright, Canada, 1920, by Wrigley Directories, Limited

A gazetteer of cities, towns, villages, stations, post offices and settlements in the Province, described in alphabetical order, followed by a directory of firms, employees, professional men, leading citizens, farmers, fruit-growers, stock-raisers, miners and fishermen.

The publishers will appreciate notice on part of subscribers of additions or corrections for the 1921 edition.

Abbotsford

The town of Abbotsford is situated in the Fraser Valley, 51 miles from Vancouver, 39 miles east of New Westminster and about 3½ miles from the International Boundary line. It lies on the old Yale Road with Matsqui Prairie about 1½ miles to the north and Sumas Prairie about the same distance in a south-westerly direction. The country to the south and west is high bush and timber land. Much of it has been logged off and is being gradually cleared and settled. Rising from the town and extending in an easterly direction is Sumas Mountain, separating Matsqui and Sumas Prairies. In this height of land lie very valuable clay deposits. On the north and west of the town lies the Municipality of Matsqui. It includes a considerable area of high timbered land and Matsqui Prairie, a fertile level area of some 15,000 acres, lying along the south shore of the Fraser River. It is a most important part of the famed Fraser Valley, admirably adapted for dairy farming, as the winters are mild and all the necessary fodder crops can be raised on the land. A surplus in hay, oats and roots has been produced and finds a ready market in New Westminster and Vancouver, as well as locally amongst the small farmers, logging camps, etc. An ideal section for the small farmer, bee-keeper, poultry rancher and dairyman. The splendid shipping facilities make Abbotsford a most inviting location for manufacturers, industrial plants, etc. On the south and east the townsite of Abbotsford is bounded by the Municipality of Sumas. It includes much of the high land to the east of the town and Sumas Prairie, a large extent of flat land, lying very low, not much above the level of the Fraser River. It is good land easily worked and very fertile. A proposition to dyke the Prairie and drain Sumas Lake, which covers between 25,000 and 30,000 acres is now being undertaken by the Provincial Government. The town is served by the Canadian Pacific Railway, the B. C. Electric Railway (Fraser Valley division from Vancouver and New Westminster to Chilliwack) and the Great Northern Ry., connecting with the C. N. R. at Camoosa. Has C. P. Telegraph and B. C. Telephone. It is also a customs port of entry, with a resident collector. The population of the town actually resident within the townsite is about 300 persons, but with those residing in the immediate vicinity it is estimated there is a local population of about 800. The population of the district has been carefully estimated at about 2,500 to 2,600. Write secretary, Board of Trade, for information regarding Abbotsford District, climate, land, industrial sites, etc.

Alberni

When the visitor arrives in the Alberni Valley he realizes what the feelings of the poet, Tom Moore, were when he viewed the Vale of Avoca, in County Wicklow, where the waters of the Avon and Avoca meet, and the poet exclaimed: "There is not in the wide world a valley so sweet." Here is a valley where the heart of man can find supreme satisfaction, if he is not wedded to the gridiron-patterned city of cement and brick, with its accompanying dissonance of street sounds, its senseless rush and hurry, its poor-rich people with their half-scared, care-marked faces. Alberni, then, must be considered first as a district, and now for a summary of this truly wonderful area: The Alberni Valley is about 25 miles long and an average of about 4 miles wide. This is practically all capable of being turned to agricultural account. To-day, the bulk of it is covered with one of the grandest stands of timber that North America can show. Here is where the giant firs and cedars form a reserve of wealth that ensures activity for thousands of people for many years to come. Down this wonderland valley flows the Somass River, which, before reaching the sea at the end of the valley, is strengthened in volume by the waters of the Stamp and Ash rivers, and flows on through some of the most enchanting beauty spots that form the ideal homesites of this district. The climate is mild; all kinds of fruit, such as apples, pears, cherries, plums, strawberries, peaches, raspberries, and all that a mild temperate area can produce. There are mountains which are a perpetual charm to the eye; lakes 20 miles long and alive with fish, as are also the rivers and the sea, which touch the south end of the valley and gives a fine harbor for shipping of any dimensions that may call here. So we have mountains, valleys, lakes, woods, fruit, fish, game in abundance, mild climate, minerals (coal has been found in the valley), the sea—in short, all that is necessary to the mind and body of mankind. This valley will have a prosperous future. The wheels of prosperity are already humming. At the south end of the Alberni Valley are the twin cities of Alberni and Port Alberni, which adjoin and form practically one, being divided merely for municipal purposes. In these towns will be found up-to-date stores, sawmills, churches, schools (including high school), hospitals, and all essentials to modern requirements. Has office of Prov. Govt. Agent, Prov. Assessor and Collector, Land Commissioner Alberni Land Recording District, Alberni District Registrar of the County Court, Prov. Police Constable, Gold Commissioner and Mining Recorder Alberni Mining Division, Agent Dom. Dept. of Indian Affairs, Govt. Telegraph and Telephone. A branch of the C.P.R. serves the valley and the two towns, and gives regular service to Victoria, Nanaimo, Vancouver and all points on the C.P.R. system. Besides rail communication, a steamship service connects with Victoria and the west coast of Vancouver Island. Population, 850. (Signed) A. H. BLAKEMORE.

ALICE ARM

a P. O. and mining settlement at head of Alice Arm, on Observatory Inlet, in Prince Rupert Prov. Elec. Dist., reached by Union S. S. Co.'s boats from Prince Rupert, which is the business centre, distant 100 miles. Has Government telegraph office and office of sub-recorder Naas River Mining Division. Anglican mission once a month. Population 300. Local resources: Mining. Kergen & Fowler's launch makes tri-weekly trips to Anxox connecting with Grand Trunk steamships for Prince Rupert and Vancouver. The Dolly Varden Railroad was completed from tide-water at Alice Arm to the Dolly Varden mine, 16 miles up the Kitsault river, in 1919, and will be extended two miles to the Wolf claims in 1920. This railroad will enable a large number of claims to be developed into shipping properties in 1920 and the further development of the Dolly Varden, North Star and La Rose claims which used this service in 1919. The district will be further opened up by several miles of new trails in 1920, the construction of a government wagon road from the settlement to the Dolly Varden wharf, and application has been made for the construction of a government wharf to care for the rapidly increasing business of the district. The settlement has a live Commercial Club to care for the interests of the district and furnish reliable information in regard to same.

ARMSTRONG, BRITISH COLUMBIA

Armstrong

Armstrong is situated in the northern part of the Okanagan Valley, on the C.P.R. running south from Sicamous to Okanagan Lake. It is about thirty-two miles south of Sicamous, and about twenty miles from Okanagan Lake. The city is within three miles of the Selkirk, on the east, which rise abruptly to a height of from three to five thousand feet above the valley. On the west the mountains are more distant. The slopes of the mountains are covered with evergreen forests. The Valley at Armstrong is from five to eight miles wide. There is sufficient rainfall in this part of the Okanagan so that irrigation is not necessary. The snow fall in winter, which is usually quite copious, and which never drifts, ensures plenty of moisture in the soil should the rain fall be scanty any season. By careful cultivation, even the driest benches can be made to produce abundantly. The climate is healthful.

The immediate surroundings of Armstrong consist of wondrously fertile bottom land, many thousand acres in extent. Here the finest celery in the world is raised, as well as vegetables of all kinds. Grass also grows luxuriantly on this bottom making it possible to pasture three cows for a season on one acre of land.

The bench land about Armstrong is well adapted to mixed farming. An ever-increasing acreage is being put down to alfalfa, which does well in the clay soil of the benches. Three crops can be harvested each season. Dairying is engaged in to a considerable extent and is a growing industry. A well-equipped up-to-date creamery runs throughout the year and is doing a prosperous business. Grain does well on the benches, especially winter wheat. Small fruits, apples, plums, cherries, etc., thrive well. The climate is well adapted to poultry and bees. In the outskirts of the municipality of Spallumcheen, of which Armstrong is the centre, are extensive ranges for cattle and horses. Here may still be seen the picturesque but fast disappearing cowboy, with his striking dress and equipment.

During 1919, four exchanges have taken care of the produce of the farmers. One of these is a farmers exchange.

During the summer of 1919 the C.N.R. started construction of a line of railway from Kamloops, through Armstrong on to Vernon and other points further south.

Good roads for automobilizing connect Armstrong with all points up and down the Valley, as well as with Kamloops on the west, and Lumby and other points on the east. The scenery along these roads is as fine as earth, air and water can make it.

Camping places for summer excursions are numerous on Okanagan Lake, one arm of which is only ten miles distant, and on Mabel Lake, which lies twenty miles to the east of Armstrong. The Shuswap Lake to the north, the Okanagan Lake to the south, Mabel and Sugar Lakes to the east, and Salmon River to the west, abound in many kinds of fish, e.g., trout (brook, rainbow, Dolly Varden, salmon, etc.); deer are plentiful on the mountains; grouse and wild water-fowl of several varieties are within easy reaching distance. The sportsman finds a good field in Armstrong and its environs for the exercise of his skill.

The Armstrong public and high schools take high standing in the Province. They have splendidly equipped manual training, domestic science and agricultural departments under expert teachers. Construction will start in 1920 of a $100,000 consolidated school.

The water for all purposes in the city is secured from a mountain stream. The supply is always abundant, cool and pure.

The city owns its electric light plant and the service is continuous. Churches of the leading denominations are established and have resident pastors.

The population within the incorporated area is 1,000.

INFORMATION re AUTOMOBILE SERVICE

Autos running from Ashcroft through Cariboo district, Clinton, Lac la Hache, 150-Mile House, Williams Lake, Soda Creek, Quesnel, Barkerville, Chiloetia, Harper's Camp, etc., and the country being opened up by the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Will be glad to furnish any information wanted by landseekers, tourists, sportsmen, or any travellers going to that district.

If figuring on a trip anywhere from Ashcroft or Clinton, write or wire me for whatever information you want. We have good ears and careful drivers who know the country. Charges are reasonable.

Best fishing in British Columbia. Good hunting—moose, deer, caribou, black, brown and grizzly bear.

a P. O. and station on the C.N.R., 40 miles north of Kamloops, in Prov. Elec. Dist. of Kamloops. Has Dom. Govt. long distance telephone office. The City of Kamloops has power house three miles east of here. Presbyterian Church. Local resources: Logging, stock-raising and minerals. Barriere is centre of a great deal of prospecting, both placer and quartz, the latter being found in large quantities on North Barriere Lake where some good silver-lead and copper claims are being opened up by local owners. A flume or logging railway is being constructed into the Fish Trap country, some 20 miles inland, where is located a big tract of lumber and ties. There are a great number of new settlers going into the district. The Trans-Provincial Motor Road is expected to be put through the valley this year and altogether the outlook is very promising.

CAPILANO

a P.O. and scenic resort on Capilano River, which is 19 miles long, and flows southward into Burrard Inlet at the First Narrows. Capilano Canyon is one of the many beauty spots around Vancouver, and is visited by many thousands annually. The scenery is unsurpassed, the river flowing through a rocky canyon clothed with bracken, lichen and ferns, the coloring of which is reflected in the water. The upper section of the river is utilized by the City of Vancouver for its water supply.

CRANBERRY LAKE

now known as Swift Creek.

Cranbrook

is the natural geographical centre of Eastern British Columbia. It is a divisional point for the C.P.R. and railways from this point radiate in all directions. It is on the line between Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. Trains leave Cranbrook and arrive in Spokane within six or seven hours, and arrive in Calgary within about twelve hours. The other lines in Cranbrook are the Kootenay Central going through the Windermere Valley and making connection with the C.P.R. at Golden, and a branch line to Kimberley.

The altitude of Cranbrook is 3029 feet. There is a precipitation of moisture from eighteen to twenty miles of rainfall per annum, and a snow fall from one to three feet. In summer the thermometer rises as high as 80 or 90 degrees in the shade. In the winter the mercury falls below zero sometimes, but there is almost a total absence of wind.

Ploughing can usually be started about the first of April. Irrigation is not always necessary. There are numerous streams which assure sufficient water where needed.

The soil is adapted for mixed farming and is suitable both for roots and grain. The wheat grain grades No. 1 Northern. The potato crop is excellent both as to quantity and quality. Hardy varieties of apples such as Wealthy and Jonathan are grown successfully, while smaller fruits such as raspberries, currants and strawberries are particularly successful.

In addition to the fertile valleys and bench lands which are more particularly suited for mixed farming there are thousands of acres of range lands available on the side hills. The unlimited range and the excellent pastures combined with the not very rigorous winter make this country unexcelled as a range country for horses, cattle and sheep. The stock of the country is being greatly improved largely owing to the efforts of the Stock Breeders' Association. An Agricultural Fair is held in Cranbrook every year. The excellent showing of stock, and the large attendance give proof of the excellent agricultural results attained in the district.

There are excellent roads in the Cranbrook district and last year over 600 tourists' cars registered in passing through Cranbrook. Within 80 miles of Cranbrook is the Windermere district. This lake country in its beauty challenges the famous lake country in the north of England. There are a number of hot springs and an excellent swimming pool has been erected at Sinclair Springs. The Dominion Government is at present constructing a road between Banff and Windermere which will make possible direct access from Cranbrook to Banff.

Cranbrook itself is a thriving town of over 3,000 inhabitants. It is a centre for the lumbering trade of the district and also for the mining interests. There are various local industries and the city authorities give every encouragement to new industries by assisting in the way of providing sites and reduction in taxation. It is the judicial centre for the district, the Government Office being here and the judge residing in the city. There are five churches, an excellent hospital, a large and up-to-date school, and a new high school opened last year in a separate building. There are two weekly papers, three banks, some excellently appointed stores, electric light company and telephone company, and a large Masonic Temple. There are several hotels, a large railway Y.M.C.A. and an excellent gymnasium and swimming pool.

Lumber Industry.

In the past lumbering has been the most important industry in the district. There are about a dozen saw-mills in the district and in addition to this there are a large number of men employed in making railway ties, mine props, poles, posts and piling. The principal market for the lumber is on the southern prairie. The following timber was cut in Cranbrook forest district from January to September, 1918:

Railway ties	396,000 cords

It is expected that the cut for this year will be considerably larger than this as the C. P. R. have recently bought large timber interests within forty miles of Cranbrook and will be operating on a very large scale. Other companies are also arranging to cut not far from Cranbrook. At the present time the supply of labour is by no means sufficient to meet the demands.

most prominent of these being the Perry Creek Hydraulic Workings and Perry Creek Home Stake Quartz Mining. Perry Creek District requires expenditure of a considerable amount of capital, and in the opinion of Government officials who have inspected the district, the prospects are that this district will rival the Rand in South Africa in its production.

Lead, zinc and silver mining is going on constantly at Kimberley, 18 miles from Cranbrook. The Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company have been operating for several years. During 1915 this mine shipped 22,673 tons of lead, 78,611 tons of zinc, 3,474 tons of iron pyrites. The company has, however, during Mining.

This district first became famous as a mining district. In the old days at Fort Steele, a town about 12 miles from Cranbrook, royalty was paid on 19 million of dollars worth of gold extracted from Wild Horse Creek and it is considered that quite as much was extracted without paying royalty. Operations on this creek were conducted in a very primitive way, but during the last year several companies have been making arrangements to operate with the aid of the most modern machinery, and there is no doubt returns will justify the confidence in the possibilities of the creek.

There are numerous other gold workings in the district. Two of the the past year been devoting a large amount of its attention to development work, and they have built a tunnel in the south end of their property about 3,000 feet in length. Adjacent to the Sullivan Mine is the North Star Mine, which for years was a big producer of galena ore. Recently this has been taken over on lease and is regularly shipping. In the Windermere district the Paradise Mine is a large shipper of very high-grade lead ore and there is every indication of a big body of one other mines in the district include the famous St. Eugene, 29 miles from Cranbrook famous as the greatest galena shipper of its day.

Prospects innumerable have been developed far enough to give an excellent showing in gold, copper, iron, silver, lead, nickel, galena, gypsum, asbestos, lime, zinc and other minerals.

The coal fields in the Fernie district are only about two hours by train from Cranbrook.

Water Power.

Almost every stream in the district has a potential water power, chief among them being the Bull River, able to develop about 12,000 h.p. and the St. Mary's and Elk Rivers. None have been developed, but there are excellent prospects for the success of a power plant.

Sport.

East Kootenay can veritably be called the sportsman's paradise. The wooded hillsides give a peerless feeding ground for grouse, partridge and prairie chicken, and the small streams and lakes abound in trout, while duck are numerous.

The Rod and Gun Club is an active and progressive organization which is doing its utmost to better the natural conditions of the district in introducing pheasants and other game birds as well as keeping a nursery to replenish the lake and streams with salmon and trout. One lake in the district, Premier Lake, is probably the best in Canada, or America for that matter, for landlocked salmon, as this lake is naturally landlocked and salmon possess in it as few four years ago now weigh from 15 to 22 pounds. In addition to this such an ideal resort for fishermen this lake is one of the beauty spots of the West, and is easily reached by good motor road from Cranbrook. Large game is found higher in the hills, while on the bald peaks of the Rockies very fine specimens of mountain sheep and goat live the sportsman for the safer play-grounds of the less venturesome.

Cranbrook is fortunate in having good athletic clubs of various sports, lawn tennis and baseball, golf, skating, curling and hockey. There is an excellent nine-hole golf course within a mile of the town and another golf course at Invermere.

The skating and curling rinks are a great credit to the town.

Cumberland

the home of the famous Comox steam coal. The largest centre of population on Vancouver Island, north of Nanaimo, is the chief centre of production for the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd., the largest coal operators on Vancouver Island, the Cumberland mines having an output of 25,000 tons per month. The city is situated in Comox Provincial Electoral District, in the foothills of the Beaufort Mountains on Comox Lake, and connects with Union Bay, which is 12 miles south-east, the shipping point for Canadian Collieries (D) Ltd., and also with the E. & N. Ry. at Royston, four miles east, by C.C. (D) Ltd. Ry. Comox Lake is one of the beauty spots of the island, and affords excellent fishing and boating, and is the supply reservoir for the C.C. (D) Ltd. hydro-electric plant. The scenery on this lake is superb, and all tourists should arrange to spend a half day viewing the varied scenery of this beautiful lake. The city is reached by an excellent automobile road connecting with the Island Highway from Courtenay, six miles distant, and from Royston, four miles distant, has electric light, water supply, local and long-distance telephone and telegraphic connections, customs, and post office, public school (ten teachers), high school (two teachers), provincial government assessors and collectors office for Comox district, County Court office, four churches and two banks. The general stores compare with those of largest centres, and carry complete stocks of groceries, dry goods and general merchandise, three auto repair shops, carrying necessary supplies; two bake shops, Islander Publishing Co., and ample hotel accommodation, large commodious theatre, and dance-hall. Large areas of good agricultural land are being opened up by government roads within easy reach of Cumberland, the produce from which will find a ready market in the city. The population of Cumberland and immediate vicinity is about 3,000, and the monthly payroll is approximately $200,000 per month. The general hospital is equipped with latest apparatus X-ray and has staff of matron and four nurses, two experienced doctors. The chief industry is mining, also farming and lumbering—Royston Lumber Co. Splendid camping and bathing beach at Royston, and all kinds of game and fishing in season. Cumberland is a growing town, the company having erected about fifty houses for their employees during the past year. Splendid fire protection, the city having the best equipped and smartest volunteer fire brigade on the island.

Enderby

(By Graham Rosoman, City Clerk)

is an incorporated city on the S. & O. branch of the C. P. Ry., 23 miles from Sicamous Junction, 23 miles from Okanagan Landing, 15 miles by good automobile road from main C. P. R. line at Salmon Arm. Altitude 1165 feet. Incorporated area 655 acres; estimated population within corporate limits 900; beyond limits, in surrounding district (estimated), 1,000, or, in all, about 1,900. Town is charmingly situated among low, green hills, at the head of navigation on the beautiful Shuswap River, at a spot where several tributary valleys converge, and which seems to be marked out by nature itself for a distributing, industrial and social centre. The principal industry is lumbering. The sawmills have an annual capacity of 50 million feet, daily loading capacity of 200,000 feet. There is a good hotel, excellent stores carrying all the usual lines of merchandise, bank (Montreal), brickyard, livery stable, two garages, printing and newspaper office, cottage hospital of nine beds having a Government grant of $1 per day per patient, opera house, modern school house (cost $80,000), with graded and high school departments, and manual training, domestic science and agricultural instructors, four churches, masonic and other lodges, two daily trains, electric light, local and long-distance telephone, municipal water supply. Has C. P. Telegraph office. Coal of superior quality has been found in the vicinity, and is believed by experts to exist in considerable quantity. Mabel Lake, a large body of water, lies about 20 miles east of the town. This lake affords extraordinarily good fishing, and its beaches form a favorite playground for the people of Enderby, many persons going there by motor car for week-end trips and camping there for longer periods during the summer months. The lake discharges its enormous volume of water through a narrow channel, having a fall of about 70 feet. The stream at this point is known as "The Skookum-chuck," and is believed to be capable of developing many thousands of horse-power if harnessed up for hydro-electric purposes. District excellent for mixed farming, ample rainfall, no irrigation needed. Enderby apples won Banksian Silver Medal at Royal Horticultural Show, London, England, year 1910.

(By John A Hutton, City Clerk.)
is a charmingly situated city, built at the junction of the main Kettle River with the North Fork, in a wide valley surrounded by beautiful mountains. Grand Forks has many substantial business blocks embracing all lines of business, splendid educational facilities, comprising high and public schools, with a staff of 12 teachers, fine public buildings, churches of four denominations, a good water supply, electric light and B. C. Telephone Co. Service and C. P. Telegraph Office of Prov. Govt. Agent, Prov. Police Constable, Gold Commissioner and Mining Records Grand Forks Mining Division District Registrar, Stenographer and County Courts, also Deputy Collector Inland Revenue (Canada), Collector of Customs and from Vancouver Office. The Grandy smelter, the largest copper smelter in the British Empire, is located here. The other industries include box factory, flaying mill, iron works, creamery, glass factory, Great Northern, Kettle Valley and Spokane & British Columbia railroads. This small community, not only for Grand Forks, but for the entire surrounding district. Another asset that has been discovered on the Kettle Valley with a lavish hand is almost unlimited hydroelectric power, only part of which is now utilized. Many other power sites can be developed on the main stream, as needed, and this with the splendid transportation and abundant raw material, will undoubtedly attract manufacturers. Mother Nature has planted over the district a splendid growth of very valuable timber and immense quantities of pulp timber await the establishment of a pulp mill. All kinds of delicious fruits, potatoes and all other vegetables, alfalfa, timothy and kinds of grain are grown successfully and abundantly. The mild winters are conducive to the raising of stock, for the mild winters mean but little feeding during the winter months and no stabling is necessary for range stock. The climatic conditions in the Kettle Valley are excellent for raising sheep, no blizzards, and no extra feed in winter. The middle part of the summer is warm and dry, with cool nights. Being at an altitude of 1,715 feet above sea level, and between the Rockies and the coast ranges, it does not get the excessive rains of the coast districts, nor the extreme lack of moisture of the dry belts, and for an all-year climate few places are its equal and fewer still its superior. A splendid system of macadamized roads has been laid out in the valley, being on the main coast to coast automobile highway. Grand Forks is served by the C. P. R. Nelson-Vancouver line, and the Great Northern Railway. It has Anglican, Presbyterian, Methodist and Roman Catholic churches.

situated at the junction of the waters of the North Thompson and the Thompson Rivers, and in the heart of the so-called "dry belt," is the commercial and administrative centre of the most fully developed portion of the interior of British Columbia. The first settlement took place when the Hudson's Bay Co. established a post near the present site of the city in 1813, and from this small beginning the city steadily grew from a trading post through the various stages of business and social existence until now it is a thriving town of about 7,000 population, with all the necessities and many of the luxuries of a city of five times the size. As the centre of a large and fertile agricultural section the prosperity of the city depends to a large extent on the farming population surrounding it, and as this population is steadily increasing as settlement extends and more land is brought under irrigation, Kamloops has an enviable future in store. Situated as it is in the centre of the bunch-grass range country, the cattle industry has for years held the lead as the local industry, while at the same time mixed farming has increased. The district is also rich in mineral wealth, the potentialities of which are only beginning to be realized and the stores of gold, silver, lead and copper which are known to exist will ultimately provide an important portion of the city's business. Kamloops owns and operates its own public utilities and at a cost of about $500,000 has installed a hydro-electric plant at the Barrere River, which furnishes power and light to the city, and to mines and ranches in the neighborhood. Power at low rates is available for manufacturing. Kamloops is located on two transcontinental railways, the C.P.R. and the C.N.R., and these offer the best see names under Lough Raymond.

Kelowna

on east side of Okanagan Lake in South Okanagan Provincial Electoral District, 80 miles south of Steamson, on C.P.R. main line. Has daily C.P.R. steamers from Okanagan Landing, 20 miles, and Penticton.

Has Government long distance telephone to all parts of Okanagan. Has five churches, three schools, general hospital, exhibition building, race track, municipal park with mile of lake frontage. Has C.P. tel-ograph. Office of Prov. Govt. agent, Asst. Horticulturist Prov. Agricultural Dept., Prov. Police Constable, Sub-Collector of Customs, outpost of Penticton. Clubs: Kelowna, aquatic, polo, and organized athletic associations. Population, 3,000. Local resources: Fruit and vegetable-growing, packing and shipping and dairying.

Land Values

Nature of soil—All varieties, from sandy to clay loam.

Price of Farm Lands—Good lands under irrigation vary in price according to location and quality, from $100.00 to $300.00 per acre.

Fruit Lands—Ready to plant, about $200.00 per acre.

Range Lands—From $5.00 to $20 per acre.

Young Orchards—From 2 to 5 years old, without buildings, $200.00 to $400.00 per acre.

Bearing Orchards—$400 to $1,000 per acre.

Irrigation

Method of Irrigation—Water is carried from main canals in ditches, flumes or pipes, and conducted along rows of trees or vegetables in ploughed furrows. Hay and alfalfa are irrigated by flooding.

Cost of Irrigating Water—$1.00 to $5.00 per acre.

Irrigation Season—Extends from May to September. Fruit trees, according to age, require two to four waterings per summer. Vegetables governed by the season, from three to four times. Hay and alfalfa in May, and again after each crop.

Products

Fruit, the chief product, and vegetables, including tomatoes and onions, have a present annual production of 1,350 cars. Hay and alfalfa find a ready local market, the demand exceeding the supply.

Dairy products—Principally butter, are exported in considerable quantities, in addition to supplying the local demand.

Gross returns from all crops at present approximate $1,500,000 per annum.

Market

Besides the extensive market of the prairie provinces, an increasing amount of fruit is annually being shipped through the Port of Vancouver to Australia, New Zealand and foreign countries. A local evaporator takes care of the small apple culs. Vegetables find their chief market on the prairies. A considerable quantity is also purchased by the local canneries and evaporators.

Transportation

This is furnished by the Canadian Pacific Ry., via Sicamous, on the main line, and at Penticton with the Kettle Valley Ry. Cars are loaded at the packing houses and transferred by barge to the railway at either end of the lake and thence to their destination. Fast freight boats are provided for perishable fruits, and express shipments are carried by the passenger steamer.

Opportunities

Under recent abnormal conditions, it is impracticable to detail the opportunities which exist here for favorable investment or employment, but no hesitation is felt in recommending investment or settlement in the town or district.

Kelowna

Has a population in town and district estimated at 5,000.

Is about 20 hours from Vancouver, and 96 hours from Montreal.

Has its own water, light, power and sewerage system.

Has many miles of interesting drives.

Has a telephone system with rural and long distance connections.

Has a number of shipping organizations, facilitating sale of fruit and produce.

Has three banks, mercantile houses of all classes, two newspapers, five churches, three schools, and all the prominent fraternal organizations.

Rates—Water for domestic purposes, $1.20 per month per 4,000 gallons; light, 12 cents per K.W. hour; power, 9 cents per K.W. hour; taxes, based on land only, 27 mills. Rents range from $8.00 to $25.00 per month. Residential lots sell at prices ranging from $50 to $500.

Reasons Why Kelowna is a Desirable Place to Live In Spring opens early in March; good weather prevails until October, the cold weather usually beginning late in December. Winters for the most part are clear and bright and not so severe.

Healthy climate, long dry summers, short, bracing winters, good motor roads; attractive scenery, splendid bathing, boating, good fishing, good hunting, excellent schools, reasonable rents and rates; good class of people.

Ladysmith

The City of Ladysmith, incorporated in 1904 is situated on Oyster Harbor which is considered second to none in the Province, affording as it does, safe anchorage to boats of the deepest draught.

On the main line of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway and on the Island Highway, 14 miles south of Nanaimo and 60 north of Victoria, Ladysmith has advantages which facilitate the shipment of the celebrated product of the coal mines of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited, who are operating the famous Wellington coal in the area of Extension.

At Ladysmith this company have built extensive wharves, specially constructed so as to allow of the coaling of the various classes of vessels at all tides.

The Granby Consolidated Company are now shipping at a point about a mile south of Ladysmith and have erected a wharf with the latest loading facilities included in which is a conveyor belt by which coal is carried from the bunkers direct to the vessel; the output of the mines of this company is steadily increasing.

It is at Ladysmith where Mainland-Island contact is made by the ferry and barges of the C.P.R., the greater part of island freight being handled from this point and distributed to the various parts of the Island.

Extensive logging operations are carried on in the vicinity of Ladysmith by the Victoria Lumber and Mfg Company, the Timberlands Development and other companies.

The new Ladysmith Lumber Company's Shingle Mill is on Ladysmith's water front adjacent to the smelter plant of the Tyee Copper Company.

Hotel accommodation is amply provided for and during the holiday season attracts a large number of visitors.

As a seaside resort, Ladysmith is fast developing popular interest.

The name of Ladysmith is inextricably associated with the South African War, during which time the city came into existence, and to the transient, the nomenclature at once bespeaks the connection ("Warren" "Symonds", "Baden-Powell", "Roberts" streets and others named) after famous generals of the South African War.

The town was originally founded by the Honourable James Dunsmuir, who was at that time operating the Extension Mines, with the object in view of providing suitable homes for his employees and at the same time of providing a port for the shipment of his coal. Commodious homes were built by Mr. Dunsmuir and disposed of at cost on very attractive terms which early established an interest in the development of the city. Ladysmith now possesses a population of 3,000 and is provided with a good water system; municipally-owned electric and sewerage plants; a splendid range of school buildings, including graded public, high and technical. Has a modern three-storey hospital with competent staff of nurses; convent and orphanage; churches of all denominations and has County Court, Mining, Births Deaths and Marriage Recording Office; Customs and Inland Revenue, Telegraph and Telephone conveniences and is amply provided with banks.

For further particulars write the Secretary of the Board of Trade.

a flag station on the G. N. Ry., E. and N. division, 15 miles west of Columbia Gardens, 3 south of Elm, the P.O., and 5 from Salmo, in Trail Prov. Elec. Dist. Has Dom. Govt. long distance telephone. Population, 20. Local resources: Stock, dairy and fruit farming, lumbering, milling and very substantial mining prospects, though the mining has not been developed as the district should be, owing to lack of capital, to work out the low grade ore propositions that seem to prevail in this district. Timber generally is good and easy to get to transportation.

Merritt

a P. O. and town of 1,800 population, situated in the heart of the Nicola Valley at the confluence of the Nicola and Coldwater rivers, on the line of the K. V. Ry., 42 miles east of Spence's Bridge, in Yale Prov. Elec. Dist. It is served by the C.P.R. telegraph, Dominion Express and Dominion Government local and long distance telephone services. Has Prov. Govt. offices, office of the Merritt District Registrar of the County Court of Yale, District Mining Recorder's office, Police Constable's office and Road District Engineer's office. The Anglican, Methodist, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic denominations maintain churches. Good public and High School. Coal, copper, silver and other metal mining comprise the mineral resources. Has large sawmill, planing mill, box factory and lumber yards and extensive pine logging operations. The Nicola valley is the largest shipper of beef cattle and horses of any district in British Columbia, while mixed farming and sheep raising are important industries. Merritt is the center of a territory containing many natural resources and offers a wide field for investment. A magnificent climate, good water, splendid hunting and fishing. The monthly payroll from mines, sawmills and railways is in the neighborhood of $50,000. The municipality owns its own water and electric light systems.

the coal city and distributing centre of Vancouver Island, Nanaimo, known throughout the length and breadth of the Pacific Coast as "The Coal City," is located on the eastern shores of Vancouver Island, distant some seventy-two miles from Victoria and thirty-eight miles from Vancouver, being connected with the former by the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway, operating a double daily train service, and with the latter by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's S. S. Princess Patricia, the fastest passenger and freight steamer on the Pacific Coast, which during the summer months operates a double daily run between the two cities.

In regard to population Nanaimo ranks fourth among the cities of British Columbia. Founded in the year 1851 by settlers direct from England, and incorporated in 1875, it is one of the oldest cities in the province, the census of 1911 giving it a population of 8,210, the estimated population of the city and immediate vicinity at the present writing being placed at upwards of 10,000, the increase keeping pace with the slow but steady and permanent development of the district. Situated as it is in the geographical centre of Vancouver Island and the nearest point on the Island to Vancouver, the metropolis of the province, Nanaimo is by nature the distributing centre for the whole of Vancouver Island, being connected with Victoria, Duncan, Chemainus and Ladysmith to the south, Alberni and Port Alberni to the west, and Union Bay, Courtenay, Comox and Cumberland to the north by the E. & N. Railway, and also having connection both to the north and south by steamers which make connections at all principal points on the Gulf Islands. In the realm of trade and commerce, Nanaimo has big advantages over any port on the east coast of the Island, and is the real key to the Island trade, being the most direct port of entry from the terminus of the C. P. R. at Vancouver, and with the unfolding of the mineral resources of the interior and the extension of the railway system to the northern end of the Island, the city of Nanaimo will undoubtedly be established as the permanent distributing centre for the whole Island and command a very large volume of trade in all merchantable commodities.

Nanaimo has within its borders industries not found in cities many times greater in population, some of minor importance, but others capable of much development and giving promise of attaining large proportions.

It is in the development of these minor industries that the city is expecting to reach beyond the term so often applied to it of "The Coal City"—not that the extensive and valuable coal mines in the vicinity will not add to Nanaimo's wealth and importance—but it is realized by the citizens that Nanaimo is much more than a coal mining centre, the greatest in the province. It is the outlet for the immense rich iron ore deposits of the Island and the logical site of iron ore smelters and steel manufacturing plants. The Nanaimo coal area is the largest in the province and is estimated at 350 square miles, the city being the centre of operations, which during the year 1917 caused an output of 1,187,764 tons of the best quality of coal mined on the Pacific Coast, employing upwards of 2,000 hands and furnishing a monthly payroll of over $500,000. Such a large amount of cash being put in circulation each month must of necessity bring about prosperous conditions, and this is why Nanaimo subscribed half a million dollars to Canada's Victory Loan, that 65 per cent. of the working class of the city own their own homes, and the banks of the city show savings deposits aggregating an amount that excites the wonder of the visitor to the city.

While the output of the district mines for the past year totalled upwards of a million tons, this amount will be exceeded during the current twelve months, for not only are all the old mines working to capacity, but new seams are being rapidly opened up, the Granby Consolidated Company being engaged at the present time in developing a virgin field at Cassidy's at an initial expenditure of a million dollars, with an expected output within six months of a thousand tons daily, the Western Fuel Company opening a new mine within a mile of the city limits, and the Canadian Collieries having commenced to ship coal from its new property at South Wellington, but three miles from the city.

While one of the oldest cities in the province, it is only in recent years that Nanaimo awoke from its lethargy, since which time it has paved its business streets, constructed fifteen miles of cement sidewalks, expended upwards of $200,000 on a municipal owned water system, which during the past year produced a revenue of $10,000, and installed a sewerage system to within 25 per cent. of completion. During the past three years the city has also installed modern fire fighting equipment in the form of motor trucks, chemicals, hook and ladder trucks, etc., with the result that the city's annual fire loss has been reduced to a minimum and compares favorably with that of any city in the province. Education facilities of the city are also of the very best, the expenditure in this connection last year being $39,000, which provided for the maintenance of six schools, including a High School and Business College, with an enrollment of 1,200 scholars and a large staff of efficient teachers, while the city's financial institutions include the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Royal Bank and Merchants Bank of Canada, the pioneer banking institution of the city being the Canadian Bank of Commerce, located in a substantial brick structure with well furnished and commodious offices.

In the brief space allotted Nanaimo in this publication full justice cannot be given the many advantages possessed by the city and district and its possibilities regarding its fisheries, lumbering, farming, fruit-growing and poultry raising. Its fisheries and lumber wealth are second only in importance to its mining, and while the district has not the number of acres under cultivation that some sections of the Island can boast of, the fertility of its soil has produced some record crops, notably the 550-acre farm at Waleelah Park, owned and operated by the Western Fuel Company, the exhibit of which farm alone comprises a large section of the annual exhibition of the Nanaimo Agriculture Society. At a recent exhibition oats shown were part of a phenomenal crop, in which five acres yielded 142 and a half bushels to the acre, and 32 acres gave 102 bushels 10 pounds to the acre. The yield of barley was 55 pounds per measured bushel, peas 65½, oats 48, and wheat 68. A dairy is also operated in connection with the farm, the prize cows being one that during twelve months gave 5,614 pounds, or nearly five tons of milk, which was 229 pounds of butter-fat, producing 331 pounds of butter. Other cows in the herd are also of a high standard, so that taking every phase of farming into consideration the showing of the Waleelah Farm is an important factor in bringing to the attention of the outside world possibilities of the district as an agricultural centre.

Nanaimo has excellent advantages to offer as a suitable site for the establishment of industries, notably those requiring water frontage. As a shipbuilding center it is unexcelled, possessing as it does in the long open reaches of the harbor, together with those on Departure Bay, some seven miles of the finest enclosed water on the Coast, capable of carrying ships of the greatest draught and capacity. Nanaimo's export tonnage at the present time being the second largest in Canada, being exceeded by that of Montreal alone.

Nelson

at the convergence of three lake systems, is the travel clearing house of the Crow's Nest Pass scenic route.
Eight rail and steamer routes give command of every section of the Kootenay, and with fishing, hunting, golfing, boating, motoring and excellent hotel accommodations make the city the interior tourist capital of British Columbia. Travellers to the Pacific Coast should not fail to utilize the Crow's Nest Pass route one way and see that their tickets provide for this.

Nelson, as a residential city, challenges the world. A climate that is an elixir, lakes open the year round, all varieties of wild sport, all temperate fruits, electric cars, electric light, artificial gas, mountain water, sewerage, advanced schools, daily press, a progressive population make of Nelson an Arcadia. Nelson is the premier city of a sisterhood of progressive towns. It has a population of 8,000.

The wholesale trade of the East and West Kootenay and adjacent territory is done from Nelson and forms, perhaps, the most important item of its steadily increasing business, covering, as it does, a very large district, the importance of which is second to none in the Province. There are many excellent retail stores, several of which would do credit to a large city. Many industries are represented in Nelson, among them a jam factory, iron works, motor boat factories, sash and door factory, brewery, sawmills and lumber yards, engineering works, shingle mills, planing mills, marble works, granite quarries, complex ore reduction plant, municipal water-works, a mattress and upholstering factory, a C. P. R. shipyard, etc. In the district contiguous to Nelson are approximately 100 sawmills.

It is situated in the centre of the Kootenay and Boundary country. Within easy distance of it are the Slocan and Boundary lode mining, and the very extensive lumbering interests. It is the banking, judicial, wholesale and manufacturing centre and is situated in the heart of the fruit region. It offers unlimited hydro-electric power development, it is the third city in population in British Columbia, and must always remain the business capital of this rich and fast settling territory. Nelson has all the attractions of a modern up-to-date city. It has a municipal-owned electric street car system, gas works and electric light and power plant. It has hospitals, public buildings and educational institutions, and is one of the most prosperous communities in British Columbia. The offices of Provincial Government Agent, Assessor and Collector, Assistant Horticulturist, Provincial Agricultural Agent, Land Commissioner Nelson Land Recording District, Land Registrar, District Engineer Public Works Department, Acting Chief Constable Provincial Police, Gold Commissioner Nelson Mining Division, District Registrar of the Supreme and County Courts, Inspector Dominion Department of Indian Affairs, South-east B. C. District Deputy Collector of Inland Revenue, and Dominion Veterinary Officer.

The financial position is excellent. Its bonded indebtedness is $669,633.23. Against this it has on hand and invested in sinking fund $304,550.44. As its debentures mature in from 3 to 15 years, by that time all public utilities will be paid for and the income from them, upon the existing basis, will equal the present taxation of the city.

The name of Kootenay has been long familiar to the mining and lumbering world of America. No other district on earth has more extensive, more varied or richer mineral deposits. Every valley and mountain side is a storehouse of valuable timber. But Kootenay now appeals to the world with another title. Fortunes are still to be made by extracting her precious metals from the earth and hewing the trees from her hillsides. It has another treasure to offer. In the fertile valleys that girdle every lake and border every stream is the richest fruit land of the continent. Kootenay apples, pears, cherries and strawberries are the marvel of the London and other markets to which all countries have long been sending their best.

The shores of Kootenay lakes and rivers are now lined with smiling orchards. Bee-keeping is also attracting much attention and those engaged in it report most gratifying results. There is a great future here for that industry.

The district abounds in facilities for all kinds of sport. Fishing—the whole lake district, mountain streams and smaller lakes abound in fish (rainbow trout, brook trout). The salmon in Kootenay Lake can give fishermen the best day's sport obtainable anywhere. Small game is plentiful in the immediate vicinity. Deer, goat, mountain sheep, caribou, grouse and wild duck can be had within easy distance from the city. In more extended trips, black, brown, grizzly bear.

Has C.P.R. and Western Union telegraph and B.C. Telephone. Nelson has an up-to-date Board of Trade, which is fully alive to its opportunities. Inquiries addressed to its secretary regarding the city or district are invited and will have prompt attention.

New Westminster

New Westminster is the farmers' market centre for the fertile Fraser Valley, and a thriving industrial city on the Fraser River, some 15 miles from the Gulf of Georgia, and 12 miles from Vancouver, being connected with the latter city by three interurban electric lines, operated by the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, and by three steam railways—The Canadian Pacific, Great Northern and Canadian National. A paved highway also connects New Westminster and Vancouver, and on this rapid automobile and motor truck services are operated. New Westminster harbor, formed by the widening of the river opposite the city, is the only fresh water tidal port on the Pacific Coast of Canada. It has safe and commodious anchorage (a depth of from 30 to 40 feet at its civic-owned wharves), railway switching track along the water front and ear barge landing slips, the Great Northern and Canadian National railway car ferries to Victoria operating from this port. The ship channel to the sea provides a safe waterway for ships of any draught, there being no obstruction, save at the mouth of the Fraser River, where the inevitable sandbar is the object of continuous dredging attention to secure any depth required.

The railways serving the city are the C. N. R., P. R., G. N. R., Northern Pacific, and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul transcontinentals, the two latter having freight service to the city only, and over the Great Northern Railway tracks.

The British Columbia Electric has a line running up the Fraser Valley, on the south side of the river, 65 miles in length, with three distinct lines running direct to Vancouver, and also a line running through Richmond Municipality to Steveston, on the Fraser River, near its mouth, there serving the salmon canning factories.

River steamers ply up and down the Fraser River and to Victoria, giving excellent freight service for the products of the mills and the farms, and distributing commodities from the warehouses of the city to all points.

Population, 18,000. There are over 81 industries, amongst which are brass works, box factories, cold storage houses, pipe factories, brick plants, marble works, wire factory, sash and door factories, shingle mills, shipyards, brewery, distillery, condensing and milk factory, dairies, oatmeal mill, creamery, launery, confectionery, iron works, machine shops (the largest on the Coast), railway car building shops, boiler works, cigar factories, gasoline works, lumber mills, and salmon canneries. Two new lumber mills have recently been established, also furniture factory, toy factory and cordage plant.

Special commercial and industrial openings exist in many lines, particularly those needing rail and ocean transportation to all parts of the world. Electric and water power development is unexcelled. The city has its own water system, electric light, free library, two cathedrals, 29 churches, two hospitals, good schools, high schools, colleges, armoury, several parks, provincial exhibition buildings and three theatres.

Prominent features:—The wide Fraser River, huge $1,000,000 bridge, Dominion and Provincial Government offices, climatic conditions those of southern Europe.

For information, address A. Wells Gray, secretary Board of Trade.

NORTH PACIFIC

a flag station on the C.P.R., 1 mile east of Cranbrook.

North Vancouver

The North Shore of Burrard Inlet is divided into three municipalities: The District of North Vancouver, which at one time embraced the whole area between the North Arm of the Inlet on the east and Howe Sound on the west, but is now restricted to the area outside of the city, bounded by the Capilano River on the west and the North Arm on the east; the City of North Vancouver, embracing a central area of about 2,500 acres; and the District of West Vancouver, extending from the Capilano River on the east to Howe Sound on the west.

The North Shore industries include the following: Wallace Shipyards, Ltd., North Shore Iron Works, Ltd., North Shore Shingles, Ltd., C. Walsh Lumber Co., Ltd., LeNair Lumber & Shingles, Ltd., Hobson & Hobson Shingle Mill, and the As-Linton & Co., Ltd., boatyards, all within the city; Vancouver Crossing Works, Capilano Timber Co., Ltd., Robert Dollar Timber Co., Ltd., Vancouver Lumber Co., Ltd., Cedars Ltd., Lynn Valley Lumber Co., Ltd., and the D. Bailey Mill Co., all in the District of North Vancouver; and the Vedder River Shingle Co. and the Askew Shingle Mill, in the District of West Vancouver. There are excellent summer resorts at Woodlands, Deep Cove and other points on the North Arm, and at many different points between Ambleside Ferry Landing on the east and Whitehill at the terminus of a local branch of the P.G.E. Railway on the west.

At present all transportation to outside points from these municipalities is by ferry boats. A ferry service is operated between the cities of Vancouver and North Vancouver, owned by the latter city. In 1917 this service carried 2,500,000 passengers altogether, and a very large number of vehicles and motor cars of all kinds, loaded and unloaded. In 1919 there were 2,988,172 passengers and a corresponding increase in the number of vehicles and quantity of freight. Efforts are now being put forth to have this service made a joint charge on all the municipalities interested and to reduce the ferry charges to a lower rate.

West Vancouver is connected with the North Vancouver ferry by means of the P.G.E. Railway, but the Municipal Council also operates a ferry service from Ambleside to Vancouver for passengers and freight, but not for vehicles. The eastern end of the North Vancouver District is served by ferry boats from Vancouver to different points on the North Arm. Steamship charts are now being put forth to have a large joint traffic and railway bridge erected at the Second Narrows. The carrying out of this work would at once open up thousands of acres of land admirably adapted for industrial sites, and about 20 miles of deep-water frontage suitable for docks and works of all kinds.

The North Shore possesses a number of beautiful streams of the finest kind of water for domestic and industrial purposes. The principal of these are the Capilano and the Seymour rivers, both of which have been tapped to supply the City of Vancouver and its suburbs with water for all requirements, and the Lynn Creek, which is the source whence the City of North Vancouver takes its water service.

These streams are all great resorts for fishermen, and in summer they are visited by many thousands of tourists from all parts of the world. Notable canyons are on all the streams, but certainly the most notable are those on the Capilano River.

The population on the North Shore is approximately from 12,000 to 15,000. Its shipyards have been giving employment to thousands of men, some of whom reside on the south shore. The Wallace shipyards give attention to repairing coasting vessels and building steel ships.

The Capilano Timber Company have constructed a railway up the side of Capilano River to give access to extensive timber limits there.

There are several well developed copper and zinc claims near the source of the Lynn Creek, and it is claimed that very valuable iron deposits exist near the headwaters of the Seymour River.

The North Shore is famous for the number of beautiful mountains adjoining, including the Lions (6,500 ft.), Mount Crown (5,450 ft.), and Grouse Mountain (4,500 ft.)

OAK BAY MUNICIPALITY

Incorporated as a municipality July 2, 1906. Area, 2,552 acres. Population, 5,550. The municipality of Oak Bay is a district of beautiful homes, comprising the highest class residential district of the City of Victoria, immediately adjoining, and forming the eastern suburb of that city. Occupying the most picturesque location of the territory embraced in Greater Victoria, and extending on the east and south to the shores of Oak Bay and McNeill Bay, the development of a delightful residential section has been a matter of a very short time.

The municipality is served by various lines of the B. C. Electric street railway system, giving fast and frequent service to all portions of the City of Victoria and surrounding district. The same company supplies electric light, heat and power throughout the municipality. The telephone system is a part of the city exchange of the B. C. Telephone Co.

A splendid system of public and high schools is maintained by the municipality, in addition to which numerous private schools are conducted here. The district also has several fine churches.

Public works of a very high grade have been installed over the entire municipality, consisting of asphalt and macadam pavements, cement sidewalks, sewers, water works, boulevards and street lighting. Fire protection is afforded through an arrangement with the City of Victoria, and the district has a very efficient police department. The financial condition of the municipality is first class, and the rate of taxation extremely low.

Municipal Officers.

possesses a beautifully sheltered, sandy bay on the Straits of Georgia. Englishman's River and French Creek provide sport for the angler in season and there is also salmon fishing (fly) in the bay in the fall. Situated at the junction of the celebrated Canadian and Island auto highways, it makes an excellent centre for tourists. There is pleasing look of dishguring, blackened stumps, and green meadows and creeper-covered houses give the impression of an English village. The rainfall is unusually low, owing, presumably, to the absence of high hills on the shore line. There is a daily train service, Govt. and C.P.R. telegraph, and full telephonic communication. Anglican and Presbyterian churches. Population, 250, and district, 1,000. Between 1905 and 1913 the population was more than doubled by incoming settlers. Parksville boasts an up-to-date public school, and the children's garden is one of the best in British Columbia. Local resources: Mixed farming and lumbering. An ideal residential district.

Penticton

amid beautiful and rugged mountain scenery, nestling snugly at the foot of Okanagan Lake, there lies the attractive little tourist city of Penticton. Like a gem in a desert cave, it lay hidden until the Coast Railway (Kettle Valley Railway) spanned the summits between Midway and Hope and placed it definitely on the map for all time to come. In the past two years visitor after visitor has given expression to feelings of amazement that a locality with so many varied attractions should have hitherto escaped the attention of the weary business man, the sportsman in search of a new field, or the family in need of a change.

This unique little city enjoys the distinction of having the finest bathing beach in the interior of British Columbia. The water is shallow over a wide area—there are no treacherous holes—and children can bathe in perfect safety, while the bottom is pure sand and free from gravel or pebbles. There is a fine aquatic club building on the beach, which is to be enlarged this year.

Trout is found in Okanagan Lake and in a number of smaller lakes along the Kettle Valley line, both east and west of Penticton.

The balmy, equable climate of the Southern Okanagan, the excellent motoring, the opportunity afforded for motor boating on the lake, equipped with the social and residential advantages which Penticton possesses, make it an ideal place for a holiday. The best evidence of this is found in the fact that those who come once return again and bring their friends.

Some of the finest orchards in British Columbia are found in the Penticton district. The annual production is more than four hundred carloads of all fruits, while this amount is annually increasing. At several of the leading fairs Penticton fruit has won many first prizes and gold medals. Stock-raising and lumbering are also important industries of the district.

The average rainfall is about twelve inches per year, the snowfall in winter is very light, and zero weather is almost unknown.

In recognition of its tourist possibilities, the Canadian Pacific Railway (Kettle Valley Branch) has erected a magnificent tourist hotel on the beach at Penticton, at a cost, including furnishings, of more than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. It provides accommodation for a large number of guests, and an extension is planned this year. There are other hotels and a number of private boarding houses, which are prepared to minister to the wants of the tourist and visitor.

A golf club has recently been organized and a nine-hole course laid out. It is within easy walking distance of the heart of the town and has proved very popular.

Two public and one high school indicate that education is not neglected. Another new eight-roomed school is to be built this year. Eight churches minister to the spiritual needs of the community. The business section boasts of a number of fine stores and business blocks—one of them a large department store, having a floor space of more than twenty-four thousand square feet.

Penticton is a divisional point on the Kettle Valley Railway, and the general offices of that road are located in the handsome station on the lake front. It is now only two hundred and fifty-three miles from Vancouver, and the journey to the coast only requires about twelve hours, or less than half the time required by the old Skeena-Main Line route. To the east a connection is made with the Crow's Nest branch at Nelson.

Penticton is the gateway to the Provincial Government's 22,000 acre soldier settlement tract, south of here, where two millions is being spent on development. A branch K.V.R. line is to be built to this tract.

The citizens are active, leading members in the community, and many are engaged in fruit-growing, each holding from five to ten acres of very productive land.

There are located here at least twenty prosperous merchants, and two large department stores, two hardware stores, four grocery stores, two livery stables, two garages, two butcher shops, two bakers, general hospital, newspaper. Within the municipal district there are owned at least 300 automobiles, and the town is served by the best roads in the province.

Population about 3,500. Municipally-owned irrigation, domestic water and electric lighting systems. Local and long distance telephones, both Okanagan and Dom. Gov't; C.P.R. and Gov't telegraphs. Tax-free expenditures this year for public utilities improvements total $285,000.

Port Alberni

is a city municipality, incorporated in 1912, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, at the head of the Alberni Canal. It has a population of 1,150. It is the western terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway, of Island division, and is situated on an excellent deep-water harbor some 25 miles from the open ocean. The Alberni Canal is a natural fiord from 2 to 5 miles wide and extremely deep. The city has one large sawmill, cutting 120,000 feet of lumber per day, operated by the Alberni Pacific Lumber Co., Ltd. is a resort for motorists, being at the western end of the Canadian road system. Beautiful lakes and streams abound in the vicinity, and excellent fresh water fishing is obtainable. The city is attractively situated on a slope rising gradually from the water's edge, with magnificent views of Mount Arrowsmith, the Beaufort Mountains, and snow-capped peaks at the head of the Alberni Valley. While the winters are wet, there is always a long, dry summer and fall, and the mean annual ber Co., Ltd. There are also in the city a smaller sawmill, two shingle mills, three herring packing establishments and two small shipyards. There are two first-class tourist hotels, adequate retail stores, two banks, moving picture theatre and garage. There are both a high school and a public school, and four churches: Anglican, Methodist, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic, also a hospital. First-class water is available, the supply being taken from China Creek, 7 miles distant. Electric light, furnished by the city, and telephone service are also obtainable. Has C. P. and Govt. telegraph offices. Has office of Sub-Collector of Customs, outpost of Nanaimo. The city temperature is over 47 degrees—zero temperature is practically unknown.

the province outside of the coast cities. Due to its unrivalled location at the confluence of two great rivers, and as the divisional point of two railway systems, Prince George must become the distributing centre for the whole of Central British Columbia, including the vast undeveloped Peace River section of the province.

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway which will connect the North country with the cities of the Pacific coast is now being rapidly built towards Prince George from the south by the British Columbia Government. Premier Oliver has stated that the road will be completed to Prince George in 1920, and this is a reasonable prediction from the fact that 50 per cent. of the grade is already completed.

"The Last Great West" may be accurately applied to the Fort George District. Within its boundaries is confined the largest and most fertile area of virgin agricultural land and timbered stretches remaining in Western Canada.

Roughly stated, the southern boundary of the Fort George district lies about 70 miles south of the city of Prince George; its western boundary about 100 miles; on the East is the Alberta boundary, and to the North is included the entire Peace River country lying within the province of British Columbia.

The Nechaco Valley, lying immediately west of Prince George, is the oldest farming settlement in Central British Columbia. Here are found fine farms of several hundred acres of varied products. The district is ideally adapted for mixed farming, and a government creamery will be established at an early date.

The amount of merchantable timber contiguous to the Fraser River, East of Prince George, is estimated at about twenty-five billion feet and consists of Douglas fir, spruce, balsam, cedar, hemlock and cottonwood.

There are eighteen sawmills located between Prince George and McBride, a distance of 146 miles. The capacity of these mills ranges from 15,000 feet to 150,000 feet per day.

The Fort George district has within its confines more pulp material than any other area in the Northwest, and is adjacent to some of the finest waterpower sites for pulp and sawmills to be found in British Columbia, all within convenient distance of the Fraser River and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

Big game hunters of international repute say that in no other part of the American continent is game so plentiful and hunting conditions more ideal than in the section of British Columbia north and east of Prince George. Here are to be found the grizzly bear, the moose, the caribou, mountain sheep and mountain goat.

The population of Prince George is 2,200. Local resources: Farming, stock-raising, lumbering, mining, hunting and fur trapping.

The Country of Opportunity—the Last Great West

We still have several thousand acres of fine farming land for sale at ten dollars ($10.00) per acre. Get in on this before prices advance as they are sure to do in the very near future, as this is a country where crop failures are not known, and the climate is ideal. Finest of water, game and fish, and abundance of wild fruits.

Prince Rupert

is the Pacific terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Ry. Co., situated 550 miles north of Vancouver, and 40 miles south of the Alaskan boundary. It is in the same latitude as London, and has a climate, the mean temperature of which is about the same as that of the metropolises of the British Isles. It is 500 miles nearer the Orient than any other port on the Pacific Coast, and is two days nearer the Yukon and Alaska than any other Pacific Coast city.

It has office of Prov. Govt. Agent, Assessor and Collector; Gold Commissioner and Mining Recorder, Skeena and Bella Coola Mining Divisions, and Commissioner Skeena Land Recording District; Land Registrar, Prince Rupert District; District Engineer, Public Works Dept.; Agent Dom. Dept. of Indian Affairs, Naas District; Deputy Collector, Inland Revenue (Canada) and Collector of Customs; office of the Prince Rupert District Registrar of the Supreme and County Courts, and Prov. Chief Constable. Has public and high schools, radio telegraph station, R. C. M. P. detachment here.

Having a tri-weekly service of fast through passenger trains from the Atlantic Coast, alternating with fast through freight service, it is the controlling factor in the Canadian Yukon and Canadian Alaska trade, and it will also be for the Orient trade in the near future.

Preparatory to this the railway company, in conjunction with the Dom. Govt., have completed and are now operating the largest floating dry dock in America, covering 22 acres, at a cost of $3,000,000; as well as laying out terminal facilities and truckage accommodations at a cost of $2,750,000. In addition to this, they have pledged themselves under a ten-year agreement with the city, dated June 8, 1911 (as part consideration of the city accepting $15,000 per year to cover all taxes), to "commence and complete within reasonable time" terminal buildings costing $1,500,000, and an hotel to cost $2,000,000. Already plans are complete and foundations excavated. Owing to the war conditions, superstructure of these undertakings has been temporarily held up, but we have the assurance of the president of the company that these works will be continued and carried to completion directly capital is available.

The Dom. Govt. have also purchased land and excavated a site for a post office, to cost $250,000, and an armory to cost $150,000, land for which was given them by the city. They have also erected a quarantine and marine station with concrete dock, which cost $175,000, and the Prov. Govt. have also prepared a site upon which to erect a permanent court house and administration building to cost $250,000, part of which is in the estimates for this year. The Imperial Oil Co. have also leased from the G.T.P. Ry. Co. 83 acres of land, upon which have been erected oil storage tanks, which cost $200,000, and are now operating all oil shipments from the wells to Prince Rupert, thence by rail to the East. The Prov. Govt. have erected a concrete wharf at a cost of $270,000, which they are now operating.

The city has spent in development $755,000 in permanently grading the whole of the business section; it has established its own light, telephone and water systems at a cost of $680,000, which are operated as public utilities. These are self-supporting with the exception of part of the water system, which was only completed in 1915. Part of these charges were raised by special rates.

Harry Hanson's Patented Hot Water Heater Coil

installed in your kitchen range will give you all the hot water you can use within thirty minutes after fire is started.

Over one hundred and fifty now in use in Prince Rupert, and every user a booster.

You don't know hot water comfort until you have seen these results.

A bath supply within twenty minutes after fire is started and then a new supply every twenty minutes thereafter.

Wall radiators can also be run from your hot water boiler and other rooms heated with no extra cost of fuel.

To the many who already know the merits of this coil it may be well to state that recent improvements have been made in it that do not interfere with its patented principle. The coil is now made of brass, which is not only a better holder and conductor of heat, but has a greater endurance than the coil made of iron pipe.

It has now become in general use on boats as well as in homes, and gives great satisfaction. It earns this high appreciation, for it is capable of heating water four times as fast as any other coil on the market.

$20.00 is the cost. Absolutely no charge unless satisfactory. With a three-year guarantee, $25.00. With a five-year guarantee, $30.00.

The Result Will Surprise You—Investigate

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C.

It is estimated the revenue will provide for these interest and redemption charges, making the whole of these utilities self-supporting. The city has only $176,000 of non-productive debentures. The total actual indebtedness of the city is $1,777,947.75, out of which $921,608.73 are local improvements, $676,000 public utilities debentures, and the remainder non-productive. It will be readily seen, therefore, that the expenditure by the city is extremely small when compared with outside interests, yet the amount spent has enabled it to keep pace with other developments, as well as provide cheap light, water and telephones. The water supply is by gravity, and 1,650 horsepower of electric current is generated. At the same time the water supply is estimated to take care of a population of from 50 to 60 thousand people, and another power site has been secured nearby which will generate a further 10,000 horsepower for electrical supply when necessary.

The townsite contains 2,249 acres divided into 11,640 lots. The total estimated land valuation is $206,968,595, of which $2,500,450 is exempt from taxation. The total land taxable within city limits is $17,917,345, which includes 67 sq. Co. land, valued at $3,583,500 upon which they pay an annual fixed amount of $15,000 until 1921, leaving a net assessment upon which tax levy is annually made of $14,596,295. The improvements are valued at $2,674,000, but are not taxed. In addition to this there are $359,600 improvements which are exempt. There is no floating debt. The total assets of this city, which include real estate and buildings, is $563,159.72 (which had a land assessment in 1915 of $1,300,000), also water, light and telephone totaling $2,520,000. The tax rate for 1916 was 10 mills gross, which includes schools, money by laws, fire and rates, and general administration. This was the lowest tax rate in Western Canada. Tax collection was an average of 69 per cent. for two years. Owing to a considerable portion of the townsite being held by outside capitalists of repute a large percentage of which is improved, the city has practically a guaranteed tax collection of 69 per cent of its annual tax levy, the remainder being made up by small holders, 10 per cent. of whom are prompt taxpayers.

The city has completed a reconstruction scheme for the whole of its debenture issues which has now been ratified by the Provincial Legislature in its entirety. Therefore, all debentures were issued under the sinking fund plan. This has been superseded by the second bond plan, which is made up of $106,000 ten-year, 6-per cent., $71,237.73 20-year, 6-per cent., and $1,540,000 30-year, 6-per cent. bonds, all dated April 1, 1916. The interest is payable half-yearly, and the first instalment of principal on April 1, 1917. In addition to the annual levies to liquidate these instalments, the government has authorized the establishment of a bond payment insurance fund, amounting to $67,000, to make as remote as possible default in interest or principal payments. In practice this has proven a great success, and is a splendid protection for purchasers of the city's securities. In addition to the credit of the whole city, as provided for in British Columbia statutes, as an evidence of the ability to meet the obligations promptly and with certainty, a comparison of 1914 levy and 1917 levy for local improvements and general debentures will place this beyond doubt. In the year 1914 the total amount raised for interest and redemption charges on local improvements and general debentures was $219,275. For local improvements, $145,643.66; for general debentures, $73,993; charged against utility revenues, $12,536.34. All interest payments were made promptly and sinking funds all intact. Since this, $90,190 short-term debentures have matured, and have been taken up, so that now the total levies for money debt, both local improvement and general debentures, is less than $150,000 per annum. With further development and consequent increased earning powers of the utilities, which are now apparent by the daily demand for more power, and the comparatively small outlay in developing the system, these utilities are bound to become a source of benefit to the city and district, and one may confidently look forward to the city of Prince Rupert as a city of low taxation, cheap water, light and telephone; the converging point and source of supplies for a district that will contribute wealth from great mines, inexhaustible timber limits, fertile valleys, and the world's greatest fisheries. Add to this the scenic grandeur of its inland and maritime highway, the delightful stimulating climate, and the surrounding beauties of the mountains; all these are Prince Rupert's, the Pacific end of the All-Canadian Transcontinental Railway.

Prince Rupert's main industries are fishing and mining. She is the northern centre for both these trades which are rapidly increasing in importance. Fish curing plants, cold storage and ice-making, masonry works, boat building, etc., are other lines followed. The fishing industry has had a remarkable growth, due to the fact that the strategic position of Prince Rupert makes the port the natural one of entry for fish products to the eastern markets, where quickness of delivery and short route are important points.

Industrial sites are available at fair rentals on the waterfront, with cheap power, light, water, etc., supplied by municipal plants. Labor is plentiful and wages are reasonable. Population, 1,000.

Revelstoke

with a population of 3,500, lies in the beautiful Columbia River Valley, surrounded by lofty and picturesque mountains, some clothed with trees and verdure to their very peaks, others crowned with rugged and rocky spires or glistening glaciers. Situated on the main line of the C. P. R., 379 miles from Vancouver, and 267 miles from Calgary, it is also the gateway of the Kootenay and Arrow Lake Districts—now famous as fruit-growing centres. Surrounded by vast areas of timber her lumber industries are second to none in the Province. With the completion of the Auto Scenic Road to the top of Mount Revelstoke, the beautiful River Road Driveway, extended 17 miles, and the new road west connecting with the Okanagan Valley, the lover of horse or auto can enjoy himself to the full. As the Government have placed Mount Revelstoke in their park reserve, the auto road leading to the top of this mountain is becoming a world-wide attraction to tourists.

Has offices of Provincial Government Agent, Assessor and Collector, Land Commissioner Revelstoke Land Recording District, Provincial Police Constable, Gold Commissioner Revelstoke Mining Division, Deputy Collector Inland Revenue (Canada), Collector of Customs, Revelstoke District Registrar of the Supreme and County Courts and Queen's District County Court. Has public and high schools.

Investments.

The 20,000 square miles of mineral lands tributary to Revelstoke probably contain as much mineral wealth as any similar section on the American continent, and its natural advantages for economical mining are surpassed by none. The principal minerals are gold, silver lead, copper, zinc, iron, manganese, chromium, tungsten, molybdenum, aluminum, barium, mercury, arsenic, talc, antimony, sulphur, lime, etc. There are rich placers, high-grade gold ores and high-grade silver-lead ores near the surface, which the prospector can work himself, large, medium to low-grade veins of gold, copper, silver-lead and zinc ores, and mica, marble and cement, clay, etc., for the capitalist; and a great field for the metallurgist and the scientist. The high mountains with their tunnel sites, the abundance of large timber for lumber, charcoal and other mining purposes; great water power at or near every mine, assuring electricity for power, light and smelting; numerous navigable lakes and streams, together with the good roads policy and the liberal mining laws of the Provincial Government, form a combination which the trained mining man and the careful investor cannot afford to overlook.

Manufactures.

Revelstoke owns its own water, light and power systems. Since electric light and power are developed from water power it can offer very cheap rates on these commodities to any manufacturers who will settle here. There are openings at present for pulp and paper factories, tannery, machine shop, foundry, smelter, brickyard, fruit and vegetable cannery, sugar beet factory and flour mill.

Sport.

Among the numerous species of game to be found within easy reach are the grizzly bear, mountain goat, caribou, deer, goose, duck, grouse, while the many mountain streams teem with the numerous varieties of trout and other fish.

Attractions.

To the Alpine climber there are plenty of unconquered snow-clad peaks that offer all the difficulties and dangers of the Swiss Alps. To those who wish to get a glimpse of the rugged grandeur of this sea of mountains, without the danger, there is an auto road which affords this pleasure, or the mountain trail either for foot or on horse-back.

Arrow Lakes—27 miles south of Revelstoke the Columbia River finds its identity in a chain of lakes. The C. P. R. from Revelstoke connects at Arrowhead with a palatial line of steamers, which lands the tourist in Robson in 10 hours. Arrow Lake has been likened to Lake Geneva. There are sheer, rocky cliffs, the heavily timbered slopes, the fertile valleys with orchards and homes of the settlers dotted here and there.

Dutchman Caves—Three hours east of Revelstoke on the C. P. R. one can visit these wonderful caves, with their subterranean passages, their century-worn arches, or their large chambers whose walls have been worn smooth by the rush of waters as they tore their way into the heart of the mountains. Seven miles from the Caves is the Eric Glacier on the C. P. R. A palatial hotel accommodates the tourists who flock from every part of the world to take in the grandeur of the scenery of this summer resort. Swiss guides are ready to show parties the best trails and the best views. Splendid roads and trails have been made and a week here during the hot summer months will never be forgotten.

Haleyton Hot Springs and Hotel—Noted for its marvellous cures in cases of rheumatism.

a station on the B. C. Elec. Lulu Island line, New Westminster branch, 6.9 miles from New Westminster and 3.4 miles from Marpole. On North Arm of Fraser River, foot of Nanaimo St., in South Vancouver.

a P. O. and logging district 1 mile from Grasseby Bay and 146 from Vancouver, in Comox Prov. Elec. Dist., on Union S.S. Co's route. Nearest telephone at Grasseby Bay. Has Coast Mission cruiser "Columbia" services on call. Local resources: Logging and farming. There is considerable arable land in the Inlet which could be taken up if surveyed, especially on the Apple River at the head of Loughborough Inlet, where there is a valley, unsurveyed, about 20 miles long, one-half to 3 wide, black loam silt, not a pebble on it, some of which is beaver meadow land, that would all make the finest kind of farming land—mountain range cutting off the north wind in winter. An ideal place when developed.

Salmon Arm

a city on the southern, or Salmon Arm of Shuswap Lake, on the C.P.R., Kamloops Prov. Elec. Dist. It has steamer connections with Kamloops, and is the distributing point for the extensive mining and ranching district up the Shuswap Lake and Seymour River, and throughout the highly developed, fruit-growing district to the south and east. Salmon Arm is the centre of the finest non-irrigated fruit-growing and general farming district in Central British Columbia. Between 75,000 and 80,000 boxes of Wealthy, MacIntosh
Red, Northern Spy and other apples are shipped annually, the total turnover for 1918 amounting to $258,537.79. The district obtained first prize and gold medal for district fruit exhibit, and second prize for district agricultural exhibit at New Westminster 1912, and sixteen prizes at Lethbridge Dry Farming Congress, 1912. The creamery, run on a cooperative basis, made 117,269 lbs. of butter in 1918, being an increase of 17,300 lbs. over the 1917 output. In 1920 the output will exceed 200,000 pounds.

The climate is exceptionally fine, and the location of the city, overlooking the lake (altitude 1,159 ft.) is very desirable. Has high and public schools, a frost-proof storage plant with 25 carloads capacity, and Anglican, Presbyterian, Methodist and Roman Catholic churches.

Local resources: Fruit-growing, small fruits (strawberries, loganberries and raspberries), dairying, general farming and lumbering.
Population: City, 600; district municipality 3,000.

Smithers

In the description of practically every town on the universe it is somewhere mentioned as the centre of some industry, but in this respect Smithers is important in being the very heart of things in this new country that has recently been attracting settlement from every point of the compass. Smithers, a P.O., is well situated in the centre of Bulkley Valley, and is, therefore, recognized as the stopping-off point for all who would settle on our great tracts of fertile land so easily obtainable. The Valley is flanked on both sides by mountain ranges constituting the greatest mineral area as yet practically unprospected on the American continent, and as the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway traverses the valley, Smithers is rightly called the centre of the mining industry in Omineca district. Several mines are working and a great many important deals were put through in the fall of last year which lead to the expectation of the start of a great mining era. The mineral values are chiefly silver, lead, copper, zinc, gold, molybdenum. Smithers is the centre of railway administration in this section, being the passenger and freight divisional point. Then Smithers is the centre of government administration. At Smithers are located the Government Agent for Omineca district, together with the Department of Public Works, the Assessment Office, the Mining and Water Recording Office, the Land Recording Office and all departments of Provincial Government in the district. It can be said with truth, therefore, that Smithers is the centre of things for Bulkley Valley. Smithers has Dom. Govt. telegraph and telephone and G. T. P. telegraph office, railway roadhouses, machine shops, three general stores, clothing store, hardware store, drug store, a physician, dentist, three good hotels, a club, two billiard parlors, a weekly newspaper, two real estate offices, a bank, three churches, a three-room school which takes in superior work, and the citizens have just contributed $15,000 to build a town hall and movie show, which is now almost ready. Such is Smithers, British Columbia.—W. S. Henry.
